

Roll Call of War Chiefs

Bearers: Premiers, Marshals

LONDON (Reuters) — The names of the 12 pallbearers for the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill were announced Wednesday night by the Duke of Norfolk as follows:

Earl Mountbatten of Burma, chief of the defence staff and Second World War supreme commander in Southeast Asia.

RAF Marshal Lord Portal of Hungerford, wartime chief of the air staff.

Sir Robert Menzies, prime minister of Australia.

The Earl of Avon, who as Sir Anthony Eden succeeded Churchill as prime minister on his retirement.

Lord Ismay, chief of staff to the defence ministry during the war and secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization from 1952 to 1957.

Lord Normanbrook, former secretary to the British cabinet.

Field Marshal Sir Gerald Templer, former chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Earl Attlee, deputy prime minister in Churchill's wartime coalition government and later Labor prime minister and one of Churchill's chief parliamentary antagonists.

Lying-in-State

Thousands Pay Homage

LONDON (CP)—An endless queue of mourners passed the body of Sir Winston Churchill in homage Wednesday on the first day of his lying-in-state at Westminster Hall.

With tears and prayers, the mourners streamed five-to-seven abreast into the Hall of Kings, moving with whispering footsteps across the carpeted stone floors of the ancient edifice.

FLAG-DRAPED COFFIN

Police estimated the line was edging along at the rate of more than 4,500 mourners an hour past the flag-draped coffin resting on a high velvet-covered catafalque, the tall gilded cross and the six candles, burning with an icy light.

The Lord Chamberlain's office reported 57,000 persons had paid their respects to the fallen statesman by 7 p.m., fewer than a previous police estimate.

Johnson Not Going

Pearsons Leave

MONTREAL (UPI) — Prime Minister Pearson, accompanied by his wife, left Dorval Airport Wednesday for London to attend the Churchill funeral.

Soviet Marshal Will Attend

MOSCOW (UPI) — The British Embassy announced that Soviet army Marshal Ivan Konev and Deputy Premier Konstantin Rudnev will represent the Soviet Union at Sir Winston Churchill's funeral in London. Konev's troops drove invading Nazi armies from Moscow to Berlin.

Television To Carry Last Rites

The Churchill funeral will be shown live from England via Telstar satellite Saturday morning by at least three television channels seen in Victoria.

CBUT and CHEK officials announced Wednesday the funeral will be shown during a program beginning at 5 a.m. on Channels 2 and 6. Films will be shown on the same channels at 9:45 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. Channel 5 will show the funeral at 6:30 a.m. Saturday while radio stations CFAX (1070) and CBU (680) will carry live broadcasts beginning at 1 a.m. CFAX will carry a repeat at 7:05 p.m.

Staggered Strikes Hit Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — Some 2,500,000 French state employees began 48 hours of staggered strikes Wednesday in a bid to end the government's wage freeze.

Thousands of Parisians walked to work, rode in army trucks, or contributed to big traffic jams by using their own cars.

RAIL TIEUP

A 24-hour strike by 350,000 railway workers was scheduled to end at midnight.

Even with rail workers back on the job, however, service on the many electrified lines was not expected to be resumed because 220,000 electricity and gas workers walked off at 9 p.m. local time.

GREATER BLOW

The gas and electricity strike was expected to be a greater blow to the nation's economic life than the transport walkout.

Because of it, most firms have given their employees today off.

Also on strike were 200,000 postal workers, 300,000 teachers, and close to 1,000,000 garbage collectors, bus drivers, subway workers and civil servants.

Harvard Professor Premier

Buddhists Rejoice

SAIGON (UPI)—Former Harvard economics professor Nguyen Xuan Quanh was named acting prime minister of South Vietnam today by its military strongman, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

Formation of the new temporary government came after thousands of jubilant Buddhists massed in public to celebrate the overthrow by the Vietnamese armed forces of the American-backed government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor had shown where his sympathies lay by paying a call on the deposed premier after the bloodless coup that returned Khanh to power.

Radio Peking claimed Wednesday the coup in Saigon was a "victory for the people of Viet Nam." The Peking broadcast said: "No matter how hard the U.S. tries to maintain a relatively stable figurehead regime, there is no way out."

Quanh, 43, had been deputy prime minister in the Huong regime. He is Vietnam's most highly regarded economist and financier.

Quanh, whose friends call him Jack Owen, was educated in Japan and the United States. He taught economics at Harvard until the fall of Ngo Dinh Diem's regime on Nov. 1, 1963.

He returned soon after Diem's assassination and joined the government as minister of economics.

Cautious Comment American Reaction

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department says continued political instability in South Vietnam "inevitably has a bearing on prosecution of the war."

But the comment, made by spokesman Robert J. McCloskey, was about as far as the United States would go, on the record, in assessing the coup that brought Gen. Khanh back into power.

Gagnon Death Certificate

Action 'Not Tolerated'

MONTREAL (CP) — A spokesman for the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons Wednesday questioned a statement about death certificates which was made before the Dorion inquiry.

Dr. Landriault, Gagnon's personal physician, conceded that this practice was not usual. But he said it is "tolerated" by the college.

The college spokesman said in a Wednesday interview: "It is completely false to think that the college tolerates the signing of death certificates in this manner."

He said toleration would be possible under special circumstances.

Meal Fraud Case

MOUNTIE TRIO FACES COURT

Three RCMP constables and a cafe operator have been accused of fraud in the handling of meal accounts of prisoners at the Prince Rupert jail.

Assistant Commissioner D. O. Forrest, commanding officer of the RCMP in B.C., announced the charges Wednesday.

He said the men were charged by summons in the last two days, after a four-month police investigation into the supplying of meals to prisoners in the Prince Rupert jail.

Charged are Const. W. L. Giesbrecht, 27; Const. A. G. Kemp, 25; Const. W. S. Austin, 26, and cafe operator Kut Sing Low of Prince Rupert.

The case is scheduled to open

in Prince Rupert magistrate's court Feb. 10.

Ernest A. Alexander of Vancouver has been named as special prosecutor by the attorney-general's department.

The charges accuse Giesbrecht of defrauding the province of money between Jan. 1, 1962, and March 31, 1963. The charge against Kemp covers a period between April 1, 1963, and July 31, 1964, and the period covered in Austin's charge is from August 24, 1963, to Sept. 11, 1963.

The case is scheduled to open in Prince Rupert magistrate's court Feb. 10.

Pale, Articulate

Denis Denies Making Bribe Offer

MONTREAL (CP)—Raymond Denis, pale and drawn but spiritedly articulate, denied in the witness box Wednesday that he ever offered a bribe to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne.

The accusation was "a bomb, an explosion, a terrible surprise," he declared before the Dorion inquiry.

It was the first public statement by the 32-year-old former executive assistant to Immigration

Minister Tremblay on the case which has rocked the country since it broke in the Commons Nov. 23.

Mr. Lamontagne testified Dec. 15 when the inquiry opened in Ottawa. Denis offered him $20,000 July 14 to agree to bail for Lucien Rivard, 48, wanted in the U.S. on charges of being a key conspirator in an international, Mafia-controlled narcotics smuggling ring.

OFFER CLAIMED

Mr. Lamontagne was — and still is — acting for the U.S. government in the extradition case against Rivard, scheduled to be decided today by Mr. Justice Francois Caron in Court of Queen's Bench here.

Andre Desjardins quoted from an RCMP report of an Aug. 19 interview with Denis that Denis had told police all he knew about the Rivard case was what he had read in the newspapers while on holidays.

STATE OF SHOCK

Denis said he couldn't remember making such a statement to the RCMP.

"I was in a state of shock," he said, when inspector J. P. Drapeau had told him of Mr. Lamontagne's charge.

Denis said he couldn't have made such a statement because he hadn't had any holidays apart from weekends.

Earlier, he said he had discussed the Rivard case July 14 in Ottawa with Mr. Lamontagne and Liberal organizer Guy Masson had spoken to him of the affair June 22.

WENT TO OTTAWA

The witness, a Montreal lawyer who went to Ottawa in June, 1963, as special assistant to then Justice Minister Chevrier, said Mr. Lamontagne told him July 14 that he (Lamontagne) had been offered $3,000 and that "it was terrible that anyone could think a lawyer could sell himself in that way."

The communique also said an exile communication line for men and arms existed between Florida and Punta Presidente via Playa Joyuda in Puerto Rico.

It said interrogation of Menoyo proved that an attack last year on the Spanish ship Sierra de Aranzazu was prepared by a group led by Manuel Artime working for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency from bases in the Caribbean.

The communique charged a Dominican air force colonel was attached to the Punta Presidente exile base by the Dominican government.

It claimed there are 25 "mercenaries" there who were to

Discourtesy

BY A SOLID majority the people of British Columbia have demonstrated their confidence in the present Social Credit government's administration of provincial affairs by keeping them in office for more than 12 years.

In the main, then, it must be assumed that most of the electorate are satisfied with Premier Bennett's direction of the business of this province. Certainly it cannot be denied that he has proved himself an able politician and a worthy leader.

It must further be acknowledged that he has selected a cabinet of many strengths. But it must also be admitted that common courtesy is not one of them.

A case in point in one which involves the Hon. E. C. F. Martin, minister of health services and hospital insurance. More than two months ago a committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce concerned itself with an affair of vital public interest and wrote to the minister advising him of its interest and offering him a well-considered suggestion on the matter.

Similar letters were also sent to a number of other interested associations and organizations, each of whom replied within a matter of days.

However, to this day Mr. Martin has neither replied to the suggestion nor had the basic good manners to even acknowledge receiving the letter.

If such discourtesy is meted out to a recognized and responsible public body such as the Chamber of Commerce, how much more uncivil treatment can be expected to be meted out to the individual citizen?

The Chamber committee members did not deserve, nor did they appreciate, such calculated rudeness on the part of this minister. If such behavior does not bother Mr. Martin, as apparently it does not, then perhaps it ought to worry Mr. Bennett.

Certainly he should be made aware of the fact that such cavalier action on the part of even one of his colleagues does nothing to strengthen public regard for his government. If this situation is allowed to continue unchecked or unrecognized it could well visit some very undesirable repercussions upon the Bennett image.

Soon Too Late

THE NEED for re-drawing British Columbia's provincial electoral boundaries is made not a lot less pressing, nor less obvious, by Attorney-General Robert Bonner's attempts at diversion in the legislature.

The attorney-general has criticized Liberal leader Ray Perrault for using "a series of phoney statistics" regarding representation in some of the southern United States in support of his contention that this province's system is one of the most undemocratic on the continent. This, Mr. Bonner says, detracts from "an otherwise useful suggestion."

How? If a false comparison has been drawn, does this alter the simple fact that British Columbia has not had a redistribution that could be described as anything like comprehensive since before the Second World War? That Saanich, with as many people as Victoria, has one member of the Legislative Assembly and Victoria three? That in several rural ridings one member represents a population of around 7,000, while in some urban or near-urban districts the ratio is in excess of one to 50,000?

Mr. Bonner also calls attention to the desirability of British Columbia having proportional representation in the Senate, which has nothing to do with the matter of fair representation in the Assembly for the people of B.C.—except, indeed, that his case for Senate changes can be seen as morally weakened by the provincial government's apparent disregard for the principle of reasonably balanced voting power.

The attorney-general cannot right an unjust situation by pointing in other directions. The province needs a re-allocation of representation based primarily on today's population pattern, and carried out by a non-partisan commission to avoid the gerrymandering of what should be a happily bygone era. To put it off much longer as a useful suggestion and worthy of study—as has been the case for several years now—likely will mean that it will come too late for the next election.

Right or Wrong

SINCE they sit on opposite sides in Parliament the two MPs of the Greater Victoria environment don't usually coincide when they express their political views. The party complex that invites their allegiance impedes them otherwise.

It is not surprising therefore that in relation to local matters affected by Ottawa action they draw different conclusions. One such instance is in connection with the naval shipbuilding program in prospect, something of vital concern to local yards and to the economy of this area.

Mr. George Chatterton, the opposition member, says that the West Coast has a very slim chance of getting a fair share of the contracts to be awarded, doubtless on the basis of his awareness of the political nuances that determine many things at Ottawa, and presumably also because of the views expressed on the subject by the defence minister, Mr. Hellyer, when announcing the program some weeks ago.

It was then the latter declared that sharing government shipbuilding on a geographical basis was an inefficient way of building ships. This of course took no heed of the returns that higher-cost building make to the federal treasury through taxes, the strategic relation of local yards to the Esquimalt naval command, or the obligation on all governments to spread their spending across the nation wherever possible, since all Canada provides the national revenue.

Mr. David Groos, the government member, does not agree with Mr. Chatterton. He affirms, as he has done before in the positive statement that "we're going to get some of this work," that events will prove his opposite number untrue in his belief.

Since he is a member of the defence committee and as a Liberal MP as well being in a position to bring some influence to bear in the interests of the people he represents, the conclusion seems valid enough that in spite of Mr. Hellyer's reservations west of the new naval vessels will be built on the West Coast, including the Victoria area.

This is one case at least where the hope will be that Mr. Groos is right and Mr. Chatterton wrong.

"If this is what happens when we scrap one tiny bomber, I shudder to think what would happen if YOUR ministry succeeded."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships,

By TOM TAYLOR

HOW steeped Churchill might have been in the poet Burns I don't know, although he was well aware of him, as his reference to the Ayrshire bard in his history of the English-speaking peoples makes manifest.

It would have been strange, after all, had it been otherwise. But the death of the world-renowned statesman and the local celebrations of the world-famous poet's anniversary conjoined to fill the mind of this writer.

They intermingled, and not inappositely.

Churchill for all his American blood was the epitome of his English heritage. He was not a Scot, although perhaps the gods did their best to make him one.

He was born on St. Andrew's Day, he married a Scottish bride, and he sat for many years as MP for Dundee.

But he was universal; he belonged to the world, and the world includes the Burns Club of Victoria.

So it was that members of the latter, as the first act of their Burns Night dinner program on Monday evening, stood in silent tribute to the man mourned this week the wide globe over.

The light he leaves behind him lies upon the paths of men.

At the earlier Burnsian occasion, that of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society on Saturday night, where wine and dance was the fare, the passing of Churchill was unknown to the celebrants until later on Sunday morning, but here too thoughts of the stricken statesman were voiced in individual conversation.

The Englishman and the Scotsman were interlinked. Fate linked them together.

Another link, that of a gentleman I spoke to at one of these two functions, was that it shrinks the generations.

This fine worthy rivalled Churchill in age, touching himself on his ninetieth year, and seemingly hale and hearty in mind and body.

He too mentioned Sir Winston, but his connection with the skein that joined him to Burns lay in the fact that his grandmother was a schoolgirl when the poet died in 1796.

For long she had a picture of Highland Mary that later went amiss from the family records in Vancouver.

A colleague has given me a footnote to history that also might be said to tie the poet and the statesman, the latter by virtue of his American ancestry.

One of the well-known Burns airs it was that gave rise to the Mexican term "gringos."

It seems that back in 1816 when American troops invaded Mexico under General Zachary Taylor the tired soldiers enlivened desert marches with occasional song. A popular hymn of the time was "Green Grow the Rashes, O," and from its repetition in Mexican ears the invaders were dubbed "Green grows," later to become "gringos."

As my colleague put it, "a Gringo's a man for a 't."

And a closing instance of the duality of the theme occupying this space today is that it was at a Burns Night that an acquaintance cited the Red Ensign flying half-mast in public mourning for the great Churchill.

This would probably be the last official ceremonial employment of the emblem that after February 15 would not be of Canadian gesture, he remarked.

Washington Calling

By MARQUIS CHILDS

The Challenge Left by Churchill

BY THE KIND of dramatic coincidence history provides, the last great figure out of the turbulent past has left the stage as the U.S. presidential inauguration has confirmed a new era.

Winston Churchill was the very spirit of his age. He charged into danger like the valiant warrior that he was. In the two great climactic wars of our century he was at the centre of the strife full of great schemes and great endeavors.

And if, as at Gallipoli in the First World War, they failed, the fault was more often that of timid compromise imposed on his bold concept.

The Churchill of the crisis era is the indelible stamp he has left on his time. But what is forgotten is the bitter frustration of his role between the wars. And this last may be the most important lesson out of his career for our age of influence.

As a Tory back-bencher in the '30s he rallied against the smug complacency of the policies of withdrawal and retreat that Stanley Baldwin talked to the mood of a war-weary Britain. He saw the true menace of Hitler's rise and the resurgence of a Germany re-armed for conquest. Almost alone among public men in the West he was a voice crying in the wilderness of indifference and timid refusal to face the facts.

In the House of Commons in those days he was an angry rebel. You saw him slouching down, his feet on the bench before him, looking like a truculent infant. At times he roared out in anger. The front benchers were happy to ignore him. This middle-aged man, the victor in the above attributes of all the cities of the Pacific Coast and these attributes should be jealously guarded.

My wife and I have been going to Victoria almost every summer since 1950, but we missed last summer. We were there a year ago last summer and at that time we travelled the road to Swartz Bay at various times and at no time did it seem crowded to us.

Freeways are ugly things at best, at least down here, eat up good land, and even towns, and breed more need for more freeways.

Please don't boost it just to keep up with other places as it will destroy much of the charm and appeal of the Saanich Peninsula.

The Cross

Ever since the Crusades, the flag has had the symbol of the Christian faith emblazoned upon it, the Cross of St. George.

Canada is supposed to be a Christian country, the prime minister one who professes and calls himself a Christian, yet he and a minority government, with the help of splinter parties, of their own will and wish, without consulting the people of a Christian country, eliminated the cross from our flag. I would ask the prime minister if he thinks the Christian symbol is of no importance on a nation's flag? Is the maple leaf a more to be respected emblem? He has deeply wounded the hearts of thousands of Canadians and caused them to resent this unholy action.

The disgust of the majority will come to light in the spring election.

Power Play

A front page news item in the Colonist of Jan. 23 said in part: "Mall... changed in the General Assembly that the United States is always at the centre of the tension and troubles which menace peace and international security..."

"U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost said the attack shows Mall no longer has the right to consider itself non-aligned."

From personal experience gained within news media services of the League of Nations during the mid-'30s, I'm now inclined to use a vivid sense of comparison with the organization which so inappropriately chose the title of "United Nations."

When the cult of Utopian dreams and the fermentation of heavy-fisted hypocrisy has been swept aside we find that the plot of land on which the UN building stands has simply become the prize-fight ring of international power politics, with the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. holding the spotlight for the main event.

The "spectators" who fail to cheer for OUR side on EVERY occasion are immediately labelled "agin us," and in addition to the verbal public wrath of the "big boss," everything is let loose with threats of termination of "aid" and the services of armies of "advisers!"

The League through similar power politics play as is being practised in the UN building today, failed miserably in Manchuria and Ethiopia. Later followed the reoccupation of the Ruhr, the invasion of Czechoslovakia, and the Polish corridor crisis, then of course the Second World War.

Time has somehow conveniently obliterated these hard facts, but there are too many present day excuses for international diplomats (such as Yost) who should be led by the nose back through the pages of history of international peace-keeping efforts, in an attempt to curb their indiscriminate "labeling" of anyone who dares to criticize, as a supporter of the other side.

Apert Words

On hearing of the death of Sir Winston Churchill, these lines from Tennyson's "Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington" came to my mind:

"O good grey head that all men knew,
O voice from which their omens all men drew,
O iron nerve to true occasion true,
O fall at length that tower of strength
Which stood four-square to all the winds that blew!"

One cannot but feel that they also describe Sir Winston.

Statue Site

The proposal to have some statue or memorial of Sir John A. Macdonald placed here in connection with the centenary of Canada in 1967, reminds me that some years ago I wrote the local press suggesting that the statue of Queen Victoria on the parliament lawn should be flanked by one of Sir John Macdonald on one side and that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the other. The three would constitute an artistic harmony which two could not, and like three maple leaves from one stem would typify in the queen the unity of the Commonwealth with the two races of which our nation is most largely composed.

I know that this would hardly fit in to the present plan, but if a statue of Macdonald were placed there one of Laurier might be added later. If you ask why Laurier should be so honored I would point out that he seems to embody in appearance something of the grand seigneur, that he was the first French Canadian prime minister, and his unbroken term of fifteen years in office is also one of the longest in our nation's history.

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

The Franco-Prussian War came to an end 84 years ago today—in 1871—with the surrender of Paris. It marked the end of the first all-out clash between the newly united Germany and its traditional enemy, France. Many authorities saw the Franco-Prussian War as the conflict that never ended and led directly to both the First and Second World Wars, through territorial claims by both sides that failed to heal enmities.

1907—London's Pall Mall became the first street in the world to be lit by gas.

1936—King George V was buried at Windsor, England.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915—the British government decided to make a naval attack on the Dardanelles, the Turkish invasion of Egypt reached end of El Kantra; the German cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich sank the William P. Frye in the South Atlantic.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—Britain and France reported they had informed Romania that their relationship with the country would end if Allied oil was diverted to Germany; in South Africa, opposition groups called for a "republican form of government" after their defeat on a separate peace with Germany.

Today, failed miserably in Manchuria and Ethiopia. Later fol-

Factory Farming

By THOMAS LAND
from London

BRITAIN's factory farms are here to stay, according to a study group of the National Farmers' Union.

Its report, which is now being studied by union branches throughout the country, is likely to form a fundamental part of the powerful NFU's future policies.

Further developments in Britain's $600 million "intensive" farming industry—particularly in the case of beef, pigs, chicken and eggs—are inevitable, the group foresees.

And it adds: "We do not believe, even if it were possible, that anything should be done to halt this process."

"We feel, in fact, that the (farming) industry must take a positive attitude and find ways and means of adopting modern techniques to its advantage and should not try to prevent such developments occurring."

"Even if such prevention were possible within our own community, we have to accept that we are still an importing nation and that other countries in the world are adopting these techniques."

The growth of large-scale operations in the retail trade and the development of the supermarket in this country "will continue to lead to demands for larger and larger orders for good quality produce," the report says. "It is inevitable that these organizations will insist upon contractual arrangements."

The study group forecasts the emergence of vast uniformity in the standards of food products as a result of similar conditions maintained in different factory farms.

"This could, of course, work both ways," the group adds, "and there will always be what might be described as a 'delicateness' as compared with a 'general store' market for higher quality produce."

"It is probable, however, that the general run of produce which differs from the intensive standard will receive less satisfactory prices."

The NFU is likely to take some time before making a policy decision on "intensive" husbandry.

However, its decision will not give the final word in the heated debate in this country over the advantages and disadvantages of factory farming.

Britain is still awaiting a report of a committee set up by the ministry of agriculture last spring to study the economic, social and nutritional implications.

The committee of eight—each an eminent figure in British agriculture—was established shortly after a London housewife created a bitter national controversy practically overnight with her book "Animal Machines."

Mrs. Ruth Harrison charges that livestock are cruelly treated when they are turned into food-making machines at the factory farms and that the unhealthy carcasses, containing harmful chemical residues, are dangerous to human beings.

The ministry of agriculture was sent a copy of the book. The authorities reacted immediately by lining up 10 technical experts at a hastily organized press conference to answer her allegations.

And they confirmed the facts the book contained.

Mrs. Harrison says she saw beef calves which spent their life on tether 20 inches apart, standing on slats with straw. They are regularly given tranquillizers. Some go blind, others have damaged livers and all suffer from pneumonia to some extent. But all are graded top quality at the slaughterhouse.

She found "sweet box" piglets so crowded that the animals' own heat kept the temperature up around 80 degrees. In one veal house, the calves were kept in solid sided crates 22 inches wide by five feet tall—hardly big enough for the animal to lie down.

She warned that the new factory farms posed a grave moral question to society: "Have we the right to treat animals like this to make quicker profits?"

And Britain's newspapers answered with an immediate, loud no. They published forthright editorials and reprinted lengthy passages and scores of photographs from the book vividly depicting the suffering animals are being put through for inexpensive, low-quality meat.

But after publishing acres of self-righteous print, the press suddenly abandoned the subject.

However, public interest is still focused on this cross roads of British farming. There are many signs of this interest.

A growing number of butchers, for example, are boasting their "free-range" meats in order to increase sales.

And the national council of the NFU has published the report of its study group, as it put it, "because of the fundamental issues discussed and the great public interest in them."

Comparison with Churchill Painful

JOHN CROSBY, from London

There is a painful but inevitable comparison between the great man who lies dead and the man who now occupies 10 Downing Street.

Winston Churchill spent most of his life preparing to be prime minister. Between 1905 and 1940, few men had held such a prodigious range of public offices, while the greatest office of all, that of prime minister, persistently eluded him.

During many, if not most of these years, he was personally unpopular with the Conservatives, whom he bolted, and the Liberals, whom he embraced.

He didn't like being disliked (and in 1915 when ostracized from the coalition First World War government, he was stunned by his unpopularity) but it never deflected him from speaking what he considered the truth, painful as it might be.

He was, in his early years, sometimes wrong; in his later ones, he was prophetic to the point of divination.

Consider Harold Wilson. Wilson has just completed 100 days of almost total disaster, culminating in a totally unexpected defeat by-election for his respected ex-foreign minister, Patrick Gordon Walker.

What happened? Former president of the Board of Trade Edward Heath put his finger on the heart of the matter when he said, "Mr. Wilson is suffering the penalty of the Labour party's unpreparedness for power. How he must regret those 13 wasted years."

Wilson, a clever politician and a brilliant theoretician, spent most of his life not so much preparing to be prime minister as preparing to capture the office. Once he captured it, he kept on running for it.

He had in mind, of course, a series of stunning governmental triumphs which would so impress the electorate that he could return to the country and get a more substantial majority than his original five.

And after a whirlwind 100 days he has now an even more precarious majority of three. Predictions are already heard that his government cannot last another 100 days.

Wilson inherited nothing more serious than a sluggish

without a plan

economy, which he rapidly built into a crisis of confidence by exaggerating it as a device to discredit the Conservative party.

In fact, all his actions were taken for the good of the party and himself.

Ah, the perils of trying to be popular, especially in high office. Wilson, in exaggerating Britain's balance of payments problem, was thinking mostly of impressing the electorate with the evils of the Conservative party's long and admittedly spotty reign and succeeded only in scaring the bankers of Zurich and paralyzing rather than stimulating Britain's own bankers and industrialists.

Despite Labor's and especially Wilson's predilection for plans, for planning, for a planned society and a planned economy, no government, on this island or anywhere else, seems to have come to power with so few plans.

Wilson's administration in its first 100 days has been called, with devastatingly accurate irony, instant government.

For every crisis, an instant action—the imposition of the 15 per cent surcharge on imports without consulting Britain's allies and in violation of its trade agreements, the cancellation and then renewal of the Concord (the first morally indefensible and the second technically and economically idiotic).

And the imposition of poor Patrick Gordon Walker on a constituency fiercely loyal to the incumbent, resentful of the intrusion of a carpetbagger, and doubtful of the government's performance, all of which factors should have been weighed in advance but weren't—each action leading to a fresh crisis and another flash of instant government.

And Churchill? For 11 years, which have been called his noblest, he told the nation not what it wanted to hear, but what it didn't—facing a hostile House of Commons and enduring the contempt of many of his colleagues. He ended the great idol, not only of Britain but of the whole world.

There's a great lesson in there for Americans, who crave affection more than most, and especially for American politicians, including the one in the White House.

Johnson Lacks Interest

U.S. to Forfeit Leadership Of Western Bloc

By STERLING SLAPPEY, from BONN

Diplomats in this West German capital, painfully aware that President Johnson has little or no interest in foreign affairs, are saying that the United States is about to forfeit the leadership of the western nations.

American diplomats, in the absence of contrary evidence from the White House, have been unable to counteract this belief. In private, American officials are deeply concerned and say U.S. prestige and influence have suffered by Johnson's primary concern with domestic affairs.

Foreign emissaries here say they have received word that this estimate of President Johnson's attitude is also prevalent in other European capitals.

The subject of Johnson's apparent abdication of interest in foreign affairs is being continuously discussed in the embassies and legations here.

Disquiet has been engendered by the belief that Johnson, in focussing his attention on domestic affairs and building the Great Society, is at the very least permitting the United States to lose momentum in foreign affairs and economic influence.

Johnson's foreign affairs stance has also been catalogued as "a retreat from leadership," and "an abdication of authority," in embassy conversations heard by this reporter in the past week.

To another diplomat, the present situation seemed to mean that "Gen. de Gaulle may be right after all. He has said the Americans would get tired of dealing with Europe's defence, and they would turn their backs. Johnson is making de Gaulle look good."

Bonn diplomatic observers think Johnson's disinterest in foreign affairs has developed at the worst possible time.

They point out that the British government is in disarray after a major by-election defeat, with early elections a probability and a second-term foreign minister in Michael Stewart. Prime Minister Harold Wilson is, like Johnson, basically oriented to domestic affairs and is a comparative novice in foreign affairs.

In West Germany, Chancellor Erhard is also not primarily interested in foreign affairs. His trade is economics.

That leaves the experienced Gen. de Gaulle virtually a clear field to promote French interests at the expense of NATO and the United States.

Leftists Influence French Boy Scouts?

By STEPHEN COULTER

Supporters of President de Gaulle have attacked the French Boy Scout movement as an instrument of "mass action" aimed at producing "more socialized men."

The criticism came from the civic information centre, a body directed by a prominent Gaullist, Christian Barbe, a former cavalry officer.

The centre charged that "a few men of left wing tendency"—including Roman Catholics—have turned the French Scout movement into a group teaching youth that there are no more heroes except "the people," that they must abolish the notion of the leader, and that their aim is to produce "more socialized men."

A-Mine Disclosure May Lead to Trials

LAT, from Bonn

Two of the best known, most respected journalists in West Germany may be charged with treason for having published information relating to military defenses.

They are Adalbert Weisstein, military writer for the Frankfurter Allgemeine, and Rudolf Augstein, publisher of the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel.

Weisstein, a major on the German general staff in the Second World War, picked up information in Washington that the western allies were studying plans to sow a belt of buried atomic mines along the East German and Czechoslovakian frontiers.

In published articles Weisstein said Gen. Guenther Tretner, chief of West German armed forces, had presented a study on the land mines to western military powers through the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

Augstein is under investigation because of claims that West Germany is studying the possibility of making preventive atomic attacks if it has been determined that an enemy is about to strike.

World Population Double by 2000

By LOUIS B. FLEMING, from United Nations

The future of the world depends to a large extent on the solution found to the problems of the population explosion, Secretary-General U Thant has warned.

He made the statement in a special report inspired by a projection of population figures showing that the population of the world will double by the end of the 20th century.

The report will come before the UN population commission when it meets here in March.

The population of the world, now about 3,000,000,000, will reach 6,000,000,000 in the year 2000, Thant reported.

Developed nations, which now have a population of about 976,000,000 will increase in this four-decade period to a total of about 1,400,000,000, while the underdeveloped nations will increase much more rapidly, from a present level of about 2,000,000,000 to 4,500,000,000.

In the period from 1960 to the year 2000, the population of east Asia will increase 62 per cent, south Asia 126 per cent, the Soviet Union 48 per cent, North America 54 per cent, and Oceania 72 per cent.

The birth rate is about twice as high, on the average, in the less developed as in the more developed regions of the world, Thant reported. The estimated birth rate of 40 per 1,000 in 1960 would decrease to 28 per 1,000 by 2000, and in the more developed regions from 20 to 18 per 1,000.

The most surprising change in the population of the world will be its aging. There will be many more senior citizens everywhere.

Thant reported that 6.6 per cent of the world's population will be over 65 years in the year 2000, compared with less than 5 per cent now.

The increase will be more dramatic for the developed nations. Already, 8.3 per cent of the population of the developed nations is over 65, and this will rise to 11.4 per cent by the year 2000. In the underdeveloped nations, 3.3 per cent is over 65 now, while an estimated 4.9 per cent will be over 65 in 2000.

Europe will continue to have the "oldest" population. North America will stay about the same, falling slightly from 9 per cent today to 8.9 per cent at the end of the century.

In summarizing his study, the secretary-general emphasized that the world will have a population 2½ times present figures by the end of the century.

"Growth of population on the scale which seems to be indicated for the less developed regions will unquestionably involve serious economic and demographic problems," the secretary-general concluded.

Ocean Drilling

Hawaiian Site Chosen For 'Mohole'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An ocean area near Hawaii has been tentatively selected as the site for the historic attempt to drill a six-mile-deep hole into the earth through the ocean bottom, the National Science Foundation announced Wednesday.

Drilling is expected to begin in 1968 at the earliest, the foundation said.

But preliminary, shallower drilling is expected to begin early in 1967 at six other sites in the Pacific. Drilling of the major hole is expected to take up to three years.

MAJOR EQUIPMENT

It's all a part of a venture known as Project Mohole — an attempt to gain knowledge of the earth's origin, structure, minerals-making and earthquakes.

The operation is expected to cost $70,000,000 in the first three years, including the cost of major equipment, and $3,000,000 a year thereafter until the job is done.

Dr. Leland Haworth, foundation director, said the foundation's "initial" decision to select the Hawaiian site was made on the basis of scientific information at present available.

He said this decision could be changed "should new information indicate that some as yet unidentified site would better fulfil our scientific objective." But other spokesmen for the foundation said it is highly unlikely a better spot will be uncovered before drilling begins.

The Hawaiian site is about 100 miles north-northeast of Maui in the Hawaiian Islands.

Mock Parliament

Tories, Creditistes Form Coalition

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conservatives at the University of British Columbia have walked in where their seniors scorned to tread.

The Tories have reached agreement with the Creditistes under which the latter will take one-quarter of the Conservative seats won in the forthcoming elections for UBC's mock parliament.

The agreement was reached after the parliamentary council, ruling body in the parliament, said that the recently-formed Creditiste group was not eligible to run in the election.

The Conservatives have run behind the Liberals and the New Democrats in elections in recent years.

Rod McKenzie, student Conservative leader, said the agreement is not exactly a coalition.

"But there is no doubt that we'll get more votes than we normally get. With any luck, we'll upset the Liberal government for the first time in several years."

NOT SERIOUS?

Harry Cooper, president of the Creditistes, said his party expects to help form the next government. He said that it was not permitted to run in the election because the student parliamentary association did not think it is serious.

The Creditistes and Conservatives will campaign together with any differences in opinion being explained in a pamphlet. They agreed on such things as the need to stop "sneaking socialism," decentralization of corrupt unions and a larger voice for Quebec in Canadian affairs.

The Dorion inquiry might find that Liberal cabinet ministers are corrupt and dishonest," said Mr. Cooper, "but this doesn't mean that the whole Quebec society is."

LEGAL LINK?

Meanwhile the president of the parliamentary association says he is not sure if the agreement is legal.

Ken Coleman said it may be against parliamentary rules to give away seats and the matter is being investigated.

Alberta Conquers Its Sand-Locked Ocean of Oil

After more than 40 years of experimenting, the elusive "Black Gold from Athabasca's Sticky Sands" has been conquered. A new 191 million dollar plant at Little Fort McMurray in Northern Alberta will soon be producing 45,000 barrels of oil a day. Read in February Reader's Digest how this one Canadian deposit — estimated at 626 billion barrels of crude oil — could supply all of North America, at current consumption rates, for the next 100 years. Youth Kept Arsenal In Apartment

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (UPI) — An 18-year-old boy, in whose apartment police found a small arsenal of weapons, explained Wednesday he was unable to find a job and had been planning a robbery.

Derwood Godfrey of Fort William was sentenced to a two-year penitentiary term for possession of unregistered weapons. A search of his apartment uncovered four loaded .32-calibre revolvers hidden between the walls of a refrigerator and an eight-inch commando dagger in a kitchen cupboard. A paring knife fell from the leg of Godfrey's trousers when he was searched.

Seven other teen-agers were found in the apartment, including two girls, age 13 and 15. Police called their parents to take them home.

Brazil Sending Viet Nam Food

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — The foreign ministry has announced that Brazil will send coffee and medicine — not troops — to aid the anti-Communist war effort in South Viet Nam.

No Cargo from Johnson

Cultists Wait in Vain

PORT MORESBY (Reuters)—Scores of New Guinea natives, followers of the Johnson cult, waited vainly on the shores of New Hanover Island Tuesday night for ships and planes to bring them free gifts.

The cult leaders had said that President Lyndon Johnson was certain to send his worshippers gifts on his inauguration day, and these would arrive Tuesday night.

The Johnson cult is the most recent of the old cargo cults which taught that gifts for the chosen people and believers would be carried over the sea. Johnson cultists increased in number last year and some of them wrote in the U.S. president's name in local elections and started a fund to "buy" him from the United States.

Priceless Stamp Flies Ocean

LONDON (Reuters)—The world's most valuable stamp, once sold by a schoolboy for six shillings (30 cents) and now insured for £200,000 ($800,000), was flown to London from the United States Tuesday night.

The 1856 British Guianan one-cent magenta was discovered in 1873 by schoolboy Vernon Vaughan while going through some old family correspondence in British Guiana. It is owned by an American collector who has lent it for display at an exhibition here next month.

John D Flays Price Cut

SASKATOON (UPI)—Opposition leader Diefenbaker Wednesday blasted the governments of both Canada and the United States over developments during the past two days in the international wheat market.

Diefenbaker was interviewed here just prior to his departure for Ottawa, after a 10-day visit to this province.

The opposition leader wanted to know if the wheat price-cutting was a case of the United States acting on its own.

"This is a serious blow to the western farmer. It's a serious blow at a time when all over the world, wheat is in demand. What has happened? Has the United States decided to act on its own? Has Canada raised any protest? What communications have taken place? Or is this just another case of the United States proceeding on its way on economic matters without regard to Canada?" he queried.

In Moscow-Peking Talks

British Reds Seek Delay

LONDON (UPI)—British Communist Party leaders have gone to Moscow to persuade the Kremlin to put off the projected March 1 conference on the conflict between the Soviet Union and China, authoritative sources disclosed Wednesday.

The Communist Party newspaper Daily Worker had reported only that the Britons were holding talks with new Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Mikhail Suslov, chief party theoretician.

Russians Opposed

The informants said their mission was to discuss the March meeting and persuade the new men in the Kremlin to delay it. The Russians were understood to be trying to overcome the British objections.

The British party had objected to the conference and said it was unwise to fix a date at present for what could be a showdown between Moscow and Peking.

Step Up Efforts

The Kremlin recently stepped up efforts to win support for the meeting which is to prepare for a full-dress international Communist conference to deal with the differences in the Red camp.

Peking opposes the preliminary meeting and announced it will not take part.

Earlier this month the executive committee of the British Communist Party, passed a formal resolution, telling Moscow it would be "unwise to fix a date for the preparatory committee in the absence of agreement between the main parties on its convocation and date."

Time Wanted

China, backed by North Korea, North Viet Nam and Indonesian Communists opposes the meeting. Peking wants time in the hope that it will gather more support against Moscow's line of peaceful co-existence.

China fears that if it attended the projected Moscow meeting it would be isolated. Moscow would have the majority backing of the 26 parties invited to attend the preparatory conference.

Truce Bought

The new Kremlin leaders appeared anxious to paper over the feud with Peking and come to a tacit, or preferably an explicit, truce on name-calling and on open debate of their differences.

Peking after a brief period of silence has resumed attacks on the Kremlin. In the past few days it has made it clear it considers the successors of ousted Nikita Khrushchev no better than the deposed leader himself.

Missions To Seek Markets

OTTAWA (CP)—At least 27 specialized trade missions will be sent abroad — or brought into Canada from other countries — by the trade department this year as part of the "in-depth" program to drum up new markets for Canadian products.

It compares with three such missions in 1960 and five the following year. Last year there were 25.

Impressive Results

With "very impressive results" from earlier missions, a department official said Wednesday that hand-picked groups will spread all over the world during 1965.

The object is not to make a hard-sell approach. Instead the groups, usually made up of executives from representative private industry, spend from two to four weeks making a thorough study of comparable industries, the market possibilities and whether there is likely to be an opportunity for Canadian participation.

Pope to Add To Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI said Wednesday he planned further enlargement of the College of Cardinals after the Ecumenical Council ends. The Pontiff two days ago announced the appointments of 27 new cardinals to raise the membership of the sacred college to an all-time high of 103.

He explained that there were good reasons for increasing the number of cardinals because of the expansion of the church during the past 600 years.

IMPALA SPORT COUPE

The best buy ever built—even by Chevrolet!

And that's saying something! Styling, for instance. There's literally nothing to touch the '65 Chevrolet. That Sweep-line roof and jet-age rear deck — don't they say, right off, here's something very, very new? So of course you won't be at all surprised — just delighted — when we tell you that Chevrolet's famous ride is even Jet-smoother; new front and rear coil suspensions see to that. Then there's something new and great called Wide-Stance chassis design — helps to make Chevrolet even easier to handle this year. Inside is the sort of luxury and quietness that makes higher-priced cars turn a "how-does-Chevy-do-it?" green. Finally, we'll just mention self-adjusting brakes, long-life exhaust system, Delcotron generator, new Girder-Guard frame, curved side window glass, choice of six engines, three transmissions and 15 Magic-Mirror colors... Hey, where are you going? To your Chevrolet dealer's? Must be something we said!

Canon Biddle Retiring After 25 Years' Service

By IAN ARROL,
Colonist Church Editor

Canon George Biddle is retiring as rector of St. John's Anglican Church July 1, after having served there for the past 25 years.

Appointment of a new rector will be announced prior to the effective date of retirement by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton. At the annual meeting of St. John's Tuesday night, Mr. Biddle also announced that Rev. Colin Campbell of the church will be leaving shortly to accept a chaplaincy in the army.

STAYING HERE

"We are planning to stay in Victoria for our retirement," said Mrs. Biddle Wednesday. When Mr. and Mrs. Biddle came to St. John's the congregation was small and youth activities, including Sunday School, limited.

In 1952 the church hall was built.

CHURCH BURNED

It became the centre for church services as well as youth activities when in 1960 the church burned.

The rebuilding cost $500,000; three years ago the debt was

Canon Biddle

$161,000 and in June, 1964, the debt was retired completely.

"This is St. John's congregation and this spirit cannot die," said the rector in his annual message.

The churchwarden's message reported general receipts for the year of $56,017.24, an increase over the previous year of $4,386.56.

$10,000 FUND

Plans for the future include a three-year drive for a special diocesan fund of $40,000 for church extension.

Elected at the annual meeting to the church committee were J. E. Brown, M. Coldren, R. W. Denson, C. G. Forryan, S. C. Hawkins, T. A. Hawkins, B. Longhurst, J. A. McVie, J. H. O'zard, R. W. Phipps, A. G. F. Sutton and C. C. Wyatt.

Delegates to the synod: R. E. Burns, C. G. Forryan, T. B. T. Hewett, F. G. Mulliner, D. A. M. Patterson and R. W. Phipps.

First Department

University Leads Linguistics Field

The first department of linguistics in any English-speaking university in Canada will offer a program of studies leading to a B.A. degree this fall at the University of Victoria.

The department will be headed by Dr. M. H. Scargill, who defines linguistics as "basically the study of language."

LANGUAGE ANALYSIS

Included in the study will be such aspects of language as semantics, the psychology of language, comparative studies of language, and phonetics. Students majoring in other subjects will have the opportunity to take a number of the course offerings.

A conference on modern linguistics is to be held on the Gordon Head campus Saturday at which some aspects of "the systematic study of man's most important possession, language" will be discussed together with plans for the new program that will start in September.

Bridge Results

Winners of the Victoria Unit ACBL weekly bridge game held recently at the Moose Hall were: 1. Mahe and Bill Prodi; 2. Margaret and Jack McAvoy; 3. Pat and John Blanton; 4. Len Stewart and Paul Smith; 5. Tom Brave and Jim Dupras; 6. Freda Smith and Lil LeBlond.

Patrons Bring Own Garbage

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Las Palmas Theatre, featuring the play The Garbage Hustler, has announced that any patron bringing a sackful of garbage will be admitted free.

B.C. Agriculturalists Elect Wilkinson

R. L. Wilkinson was elected president of the Agricultural Institute of Canada and the B.C. Institute of Agriologists at the annual meeting in the Empress Hotel this week.

Other officers elected were S. B. Peterson, vice-president; K. G. Savage, secretary-treasurer; William Burrows, Fred Cunningham and E. Reid, executive and G. L. Landon, publicity convener.

A panel on agricultural education followed the meeting.

On the panel were Jack White, director of vocational education, B.C. Department of Education; Ron Pilling, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture and John Pankratz, B.C. Department of Agriculture.

But Should Be Taught

Dual Tongue Opposed

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Civil Service Federation of Canada Wednesday said a poll of civil servants showed two-thirds did not feel that both English and French should be given equal status as official languages in all parts of Canada.

This was one of the highlights of a 21-page brief presented Tuesday to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism. In the survey, 22,168 members of the CSFC took part.

Only 32.2 per cent of those answering the survey felt both languages should have an equal status. Slightly more than twice this number, 67.8 per cent, rejected equality.

In its recommendations to the B and B commission, the CSFC urged both languages be taught as compulsory subjects in elementary and secondary schools across Canada.

The association also suggested government incentives for federal employees learning a second language to "promote and foster" the growth of bilingualism in Canada.

20 New Flags Arrive For Pacific Command

Twenty new Canadian flags arrived at the navy's Pacific Command Wednesday but won't be flown until Feb. 15. The flags will replace the White Ensign on warships and establishments and the Blue Ensign on auxiliary craft. The 20 copies of the red-barred standard with red maple leaf on a white ground are the first of 375 flags which will meet immediate requirements.

Flags from the shipment have been air-expressed to Hawaii for the destroyer-escorts HMCS Fraser and Qu'Appelle. They will be there at noon Feb. 15, the time designated by the government for the raising of the new flags.

Flags were dispatched to Long Beach, Calif., for the ocean escorts New Glasgow and Sussexvale.

Flags have also been provided to the destroyer-escorts HMCS Yukon and Ottawa. Ottawa will be at sea Feb. 15 on her way to join Atlantic Command in Halifax. Yukon will be in California waters with New Glasgow and Sussexvale.

MLA Declares:

B.C. Needs 40 Banks

B.C. needs not one but 40 banks of its own and could have them by granting provincial charters, Hunter Vogel (S.C.—Delta) told the legislature Wednesday.

"Why should a bank charter not be granted by a province?" he said. "This system is not new, radical or untried. It is working very well in the U.S."

ANTI-COMBINE

Mr. Vogel said the U.S. system is designed to prevent huge monopolistic nationwide institutions and "any semblance of combines or semi-monopolies."

Canada is making a serious mistake, Mr. Vogel said, by not applying the self-regulating principle of competition to the banking business.

NOT SACRED COW

"The business of money-lending is not a sacred cow," he said, "and it should not be an exception as far as competition is concerned."

He said that the state of Washington, not too different from B.C. in population and economic factors, has 27 nationally chartered banks and 88 separate banks under state charter.

NOT JUST ONE

"According to my arithmetic, we do not need just one Bank of B.C., we need 40 banks in this province," said Mr. Vogel.

"Everyone would benefit, the existing banks most of all, probably to the astonishment of some of our senators."

SOME CONCERN

Waldo Skilling said the single sentence referring to chartered banks in last Thursday's throne speech has been causing some concern among members of the province's banking fraternity.

At the state ball following the opening of the legislature, he said, several bankers spoke to him about which existing bank the government was likely to buy into.

NOT TO WORRY

"They wanted to know what was the smallest bank," said Mr. Skilling. "I told them not to worry about the smallest bank. We are going to start with the biggest bank."

Reference in the throne speech to new legislation coming up that will permit the government to buy shares in chartered banks

Tax Return Charges Bring Fines

Fines totalling $150 were imposed Wednesday in city magistrate's court on four persons and a contractor's firm convicted of failure to file 1963 income tax returns.

They were Ray E. Oranston, 294 Douglas, fined $25 on each of two counts; Reginald C. Louis, 1025 Terrace, $25; Robert R. Cubbon, HMCS Stettin, $25; Julius Fechter, 1338 Merritt, $25, and Juf Drywall Ltd., same address, $25.

10,000 Sign Petition

Sales Tax Relief Urged by Women

A 10,000-name petition urging elimination of provincial sales tax from students' clothing and household items was presented to the government Wednesday.

Names were collected from all over the province by the Women Against High Prices Committee to protest the five per cent sales tax.

A committee delegation from Greater Victoria and Vancouver met party leaders Wednesday to explain the protest.

AVOWED PURPOSE

The committee claims that $100,000 of the estimated $101,000,000 raised from sales tax was "not used for the avowed purpose" of supporting B.C. hospitals.

A spokesman said the committee feels "the necessities of clean, hygienic living should not be directly taxed."

The women proposed removing taxes from soap, detergents, toothpaste, bathroom tissue and women's personal hygienic needs as well as clothes for all students, including those attending university.

MODEST REQUEST

"We feel this request for the removal of the sales tax on (these) items is both reasonable and modest," the spokesman said.

"It will benefit all people, and be of most help where help is needed most."

They All Talked About It

By IAN STREET

B.C.'s 52 MLAs talked about turning in their free B.C. Hydro bus passes Wednesday but they didn't get around to actually doing anything about it.

Alan Macfarlane (L. Oak Bay) started the ball rolling when he said he never used his, and would give it to a needy pensioner if Hydro would guarantee he wouldn't be prosecuted for transferring it.

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kieman said: "I suggest we all hand our bus passes back. I have sent mine back."

Famed Name For Liner?

LIVERPOOL (Reuters)—Britain's new $64,400,000 Cunard liner, temporarily known as the Q1, may be named after Sir Winston Churchill, a company spokesman said Tuesday. The new 58,000-ton liner will take the place of the $1,000-ton Queen Mary in about three years.

There were sounds of "I will," "fine," and "okay" from both sides of the House, but no signs of action.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan mildly protested that he used his.

STUDY URGED

Mr. Macfarlane said the government should immediately agree to sit down with municipal representatives to make a study of the transit question. But he made it clear that the responsibility for operating buses is a provincial one.

He told the House that when the government took over B.C. Electric in 1961 there was a "nest-egg" of $46,000,000 accumulated from BCE profits to meet future needs.

This sum, said Mr. Macfarlane, if invested at five per cent, would produce $2,300,000 a year.

SACRIFICE SALE
TELMAC
NO MONEY DOWN

enough to handsomely subsidize transit operations here and on the Lower Mainland.

PRICE REDUCTION

He also claimed there was an $18,000,000 reduction in the purchase price paid by the government to offset the transit system losses.

"Not one cent of this has been invested in the transit system," said Mr. Macfarlane.

Premier Bennett jumped up to interject: "That is completely false."

Mr. Macfarlane said this $18,000,000 could be used to completely modernize Hydro's transit fleet and make it more efficient.

Commercial Clamps Delayed

Sports Anglers' New Limits Start June 1

By ALEC MERRIDAN
Colonist Outdoor Editor

New salmon sports catch limit of four fish will come into effect June 1, but commercial fishery cutback proposals, with one exception, have been delayed until next fall.

All B.C. commercial fishing has been closed for December and January and had been expected to stay closed until April under new conservation proposals.

But now commercial spring salmon fishing in R.C. waters will re-open Monday. Coho fishing for commercial fishermen has been delayed two weeks from June 15 to July 1.

Despite the failure of the federal fisheries department to apply most of the new proposals quickly to commercial fishery, a spokesman Wednesday denied that "sports fishermen are being sold down the river."

The spokesman explained that the date for the implementation of the new sports catch limit also has been delayed from the first of the year to June 1. The new limit will be four salmon of any size over 12 inches, instead of the previous aggregate of eight salmon, only four of which may be more than three pounds.

The spokesman added that sports fishermen actually will gain from the two-week delay imposed on commercial coho fishing, because in previous years 40 per cent of the commercial coho catch has been taken in the period between June 15 and July 1.

New sports and commercial fishermen will start off together on equal terms to fish more and bigger salmon at the start of the vacation season, he argues.

However, commercial fishing closures will definitely start earlier next fall — Oct. 1 to April 14 in waters from Campbell River to Beechey Head, and from Nov. 1 to April 14 from Beechey Head to Port Renfrew waters.

Previously there has been a December-January commercial fishing closure in the regulations but it hasn't been enforced until this winter.

Although there will be no closure this year in February, March and part of April when commercial fishermen catch a lot of tiny fish which would grow to be harvested in the same numbers as heavier fish, the commercial catch of shakers... under-sized grise that are bashed on the side of the boat to get them off the hooks... which are killed in great numbers by trollers in fall and winter months will be stopped by the Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 closures.

But, there is no word of curtailment on the herring seiners, which undoubtedly kill more salmon grise in their nets than any other fishing operation.

Sports fishermen will undoubtedly feel better that they have been singled out for the earliest implementation of the new conservation measures, but even so those who supported the limit cut most will be sorry that it will not be implemented early enough this year to help cut down on the huge winter and spring sports catch of salmon grise.

Another concession to commercial fishermen is that the July 1 start of commercial coho season will not include the westerly portion of Juan de Fuca Strait, starting at San Juan Point, on the east side of San Juan Bay at Port Renfrew.

There the commercial coho season will start June 15 as usual, because international troll fishing operations normally start in that region prior to July 1.

But, this regulation might work to the advantage of Gulf of Georgia fishermen because west coast trollers can be expected to head directly to the west coast fishing grounds. It had been feared they would concentrate on the Gulf of Georgia coho before heading for the west coast, if opening dates were the same. The bigger coho to be expected with a later opening date was expected to attract the west coast trollers to stay in the Gulf for a couple of weeks of bonanza fishing.

Fisheries director Rod Houston said his recommendations have gone to Ottawa and confirmation is expected shortly.

Patrick Captains Tide

Rugby Cup Time

Jack Patrick of James Bay Athletic Association will captain the Victoria Rugby Union all-star team which will start its defence of the McKeebie Cup this weekend.

Four British Columbia rugby unions compete annually, selecting all-star teams for the competition. University of British Columbia will play Victoria's Crimson Tide Saturday in Macdonald Park, starting at 2:30 p.m.

Other unions in the competition are North Shore and Vancouver.

Selectors have picked 13 players from four Victoria first division teams and one from the second division to compete for spots on the Tide.

League-leading James Bay

'Dawn Patrol' Stages Big Effort Tonight

They are only three boys of 637 who compete in Minor Hockey Week program tonight at arena, starting at 4 p.m.

Dossier Names 35 Players

Soccer Scandal Not Over Yet

LONDON (AP) — A police spokesman said Wednesday that 35 more professional soccer stars may be charged with throwing matches and cheating besides.

The predictions of new moves by the authorities followed Tuesday's court drama in Nottingham, when 10 soccer players were jailed for conspiring to lose league games.

Two England international stars, Peter Swan and Tony Kay, were given four months each.

Another man, James Gould, got four years, the heaviest sentence imposed.

The two-week trial was the largest of its kind in British soccer history.

Chief Supt. William Bowler, head of Sheffield's criminal investigation department, said he has sent a dossier on the case to the director of public prosecutions.

Bowler said 35 more players are named in the dossier.

"What action may follow, or if there is any action, is up to the director of public prosecutions," said Bowler, a witness at the trial.

Meanwhile, it seemed certain that the 10 men sentenced Tuesday will be banned from soccer for life.

Denis Follows, secretary of the English Football Association said:

"We will hold a disciplinary committee of inquiry. It is almost automatic that these men will be suspended for life."

"I have every sympathy with the clubs hit by this terrible business. Everton, for instance, which paid a great deal of money for Tony Kay. But I do not see how they can be recompensed."

Kay, Swan and another Sheffield star, David (Bronco) Layne, were jailed for their part in throwing that match. The seven other men were convicted of fixing games involving other teams.

Joe Meek, chairman of the Football Association, said:

"Players who have been named in newspaper articles, or whose names have been brought to our notice from private sources, will be seen. They will be asked to answer allegations against them. If we find there is basis for the allegations, we shall take action."

Boycott batted throughout

England's second innings, scoring 76 not out in a total of 133 for 6.

A South African declaration

at lunch with a lead of 313 left

England to bat for only four hours, but the South African attack bid strongly for victory and might have snatched it but for Boycott's stubborn defence.

South Africa, which declared at 307 for 3, hit 136 in two

James Bay Victoria Awaits Car Plan

Victoria is willing to go along with a plan to ease the parking situation in the legislative precinct in James Bay, but the initiative should come from the province.

"The government will have to provide some sort of a starting point," said Mayor R. B. Wilson Wednesday at a special city hall meeting of provincial and municipal representatives, called to consider the problem.

"NEW LOOK"
Decision of the meeting, which included the deputy provincial works minister, Arnold Webb, and deputy minister of municipal affairs, J. E. Brown, is to take a "new look" at the whole area.

In order to make the look more penetrating than it has been over the many years this problem has been discussed, a technical committee of engineers and planners will go over the question first and try to come up with some realistic recommendations.

FURTHER MEETING
A further meeting, probably in the middle of February, will be held to reconsider the issue.

"I think the problem has been aggravated by the fact that no one realized James Bay was going to develop the way it did," said Mr. Brown.

"We should try to retain what over we can of the harbor frontage," he added.

WILL MOVE FAST

On the suggestion of Mr. Webb that the time had arrived for action on this problem, Mayor Wilson stated that the city would move fast if the government came forward with some sort of a basic plan.

City engineer James Garnett described the parking situation in James Bay as "an untidy mess." Some sort of a comprehensive plan was certainly needed, he said.

"CREATES ANTI-PATHY"

The practice of obtaining parking lot property "a bit here and a bit there" in the untidiness of planning and creates citizen anti-pathy," Mr. Garnett added.

Mr. Webb said that his department had made a number of studies and had not overlooked the possibility that a parking building of some kind might eventually be the answer to the problem.

A fire that wiped out a shed and damaged a barn on the Songhees reserve just off Cooper's Road Jan. 20 is being treated as a case of arson, a spokesman of RCMP Colwood detachment said Wednesday.

The shed and barn are owned by Joe Wong, 381 Canterbury. Mr. Wong is proprietor of Sang Lee Farm on Cooper's Road.

"There is no doubt about it being arson," the spokesman said. "A fire was started in the two different buildings at the same time."

Inquiry into the fire is being conducted by Inspector A. H. Taylor of the Vancouver fire marshal's office, View Royal

Girl, 6, Killed At Laidlaw

LAWLAW (CP) — A six-year-old girl was killed on the Trans-Canada Highway at this small community 90 miles east of Vancouver.

Police said Debbie George was struck by a car when she ran across the highway, apparently to greet her father, Ralph George of the Laidlaw Indian reserve.

Fire Heroes Win Awards

Two city firemen will receive bravery awards at the annual meeting of the St. John Ambulance Association tonight.

They are Fire Lieut. William Dill and Fireman driver Harold Graves, who won Priority Meritism Certificates for risking their lives last Sept. 9 in rescuing a 66-year-old man from his burning house.

It is the first time such awards have been made in Victoria for several years.

For Six Schools

Vocational Costs Set at $2,525,000

The cost of new vocational wings proposed for six Greater Victoria secondary schools is estimated at a total of $2,525,000.

Figures released Tuesday in the 1965 Greater Victoria school board budget show $1,732,066 is allotted for the construction and reconstruction of the buildings, $500,000 for furniture and equipment and $232,944 for plans, supervision and contingencies.

The vocational wings were proposed for Mount Douglas, Mount View, Victoria, Gordon Head, Esquimalt and Oak Bay senior secondary schools under the Vocational Schools Assistance Act.

They would include draughting rooms, construction shops, mechanics' shops, industrial power shops, food production laboratories and modern machinery for clothing construction.

Financing of the vocational wings as set down by the act would be 67.5 per cent from Ottawa, 22.5 per cent from the provincial government and 10 per cent or $252,500 from the school board.

Proposed expenditure for construction and furniture for Victoria is $224,826 and $184,878; Oak Bay $385,020 and $34,865; Esquimalt $337,900 and $71,658; Mount View $346,520 and $98,500; Mount Douglas, $217,900 and $64,160; and Gordon Head, $270,800 and $45,913.

Drive Planned to Cut Sanscha Hall Debt

Rentals of Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall will be lower once it is free of debt, hall association president Alan Spooner said Wednesday.

Mr. Spooner earlier this week told the group's annual meeting a major effort was being made this year to reduce the debt on the hall, which caters to more than 20 local organizations.

He added there would be a slight increase this year on the present rental charge of $25 a night.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE The association's program to cut the debt on the hall will include a drive next month to increase membership to 1,000 from 300, a fund-raising Klen-die Night Feb. 20 and a Dominion Day festival to raise at least $2,000.

Mr. Spooner was re-elected president at the annual meeting. Other officers are Bob Day, first vice-president; Col. R. O. Bull, second vice-president, and Ken Soles, third vice-president.

A WORLD'S FIRST FROM RED ROSE

New Flavour-Flo gauze — a rayon fabric developed exclusively for Red Rose tea bags — gives tea a sparkle you've never enjoyed before

Every type of tea bag material — till now — has dulled the taste of tea. For years, the tea industry around the world has been trying to eliminate this last barrier between you and full tea enjoyment. Now at last — a flavour break-through! Red Rose is proud to be the first with the answer: the new 'Flavour-Flo' gauze fabric.

This non-woven rayon fabric adds not a trace of a taste of its own. And it's so porous, the boiling water hits the tea leaves at its bubbling peak... releases all the fresh tea flavour to give a sparkle, a brightness to tea you'll enjoy again and again.

Hees Shunning Political Arena

By WILLIAM NEVILLE

MONTREAL (UPI) — George Hees has no present plan to return to active political life and it would take a strong "crisis of conscience" to make him change his mind.

This is the impression one gets from those who best know the man listed by many Conservatives as a possible successor to John Diefenbaker, should the current efforts to unseat Mr. Hees have no effect in winning the Conservative Party leader.

These associates describe the duplex estate minister as "extremely happy" in his present job as president of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchange, disillusioned and even disgusted at the current atmosphere in Ottawa, and extremely cautious in avoiding any public comment or commitment on particular political issues of the day.

The consensus among them is that, as things now stand, Mr. Hees has no interest in seeking the Conservative Party leadership. As for the future, one close friend put it this way: "My impression is it would take some kind of special appeal to George's conscience as a public servant to get him back in Ottawa. If things get very bad there and he could be convinced he could — and should — do something to rectify the situation, then he might think differently."

Hees himself has steadfastly refused to commit himself on a political speech or comment — his political future, stressing that in his non-partisan position the exchanges, he hardly could allow himself "hypothetical" statements on partisan subjects.

"All I can say is that I am working at this job and enjoying it very much," he said. "Since I came here I've stayed right out of politics—I haven't attended a political meeting or made

Talks Continuing

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Top Chrysler Canada Limited and United Auto Workers (UAW) contract negotiators were prepared to bargain down to the wire on a 10 a.m. strike deadline today despite a third small without strike since Friday.

Some 25 workers in the passenger car assembly plant walked off their jobs Wednesday, killing 4,000 other workers. The same group walked out Friday in contravention of an original Monday strike deadline. They returned to work Monday, walked out Tuesday, closing the plant, and again Wednesday, despite union pleas to keep working.

Law Change Asked

Sterilization Still Abhorred

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver law and regulation committee is asking the provincial government to change the law on sterilization. The committee is asking for a change in the law to allow for the sterilization of men and women who are mentally ill or who are a danger to themselves or others.

Directors unanimously approved from its health committee a report described by its authors as an attempt to "eliminate the tragedy of large, unwanted families."

British Columbia hospitals are now refusing to sterilize a man or woman who requests a sterilization operation on a female after a pregnancy by a hospital committee, said the report.

Chemical Shoos, Doesn't Kill

Shock Awaits Starlings

By JACK FREY

Thousands of starlings are roosting near Beacon Hill Park and if they try to take over Victoria they may find an unpleasant surprise in store for them.

The Canadian Forestry Association announced Monday that a new chemical has been found effective in controlling such nuisance birds as starlings and seagulls.

It is a chemical called Avitrol which was developed by the Phillips Petroleum Company in the United States, said CFA manager W. F. Myring, of Vancouver.

The chemical is toxic to birds but can be used sparingly enough to cause them to react in such an erratic manner that unfocused birds leave the area, said a release from the forestry association.

Some officials have suggested the chemical may be useful in keeping in check the thousands of starlings which are now roosting near Beacon Hill Park and the seagulls at Patricia Bay Airport.

Success on the seagull problem has been reported by Victoria falconer Frank Beebe and his assistant, Brian Davies, who used trained falcons to keep the seagull population down at the airport, at the request of the National Research Council.

City parks superintendent Herbert Warren said starlings are so aggressive that they compete vigorously with other birds. They are now roosting in trees near Ganssere Lake in Beacon Hill Park and in bushes along the waterfront at the southern end of the park.

Dr. Clifford Carl of the provincial museum said that while starlings can be a nuisance they have not become a real problem here.

"But the time may come when we would need it (the chemical) here and if it works as they say, it sounds promising."

Dr. Carl said starlings became such a nuisance in one of the Vancouver residential areas recently that all the boulevard trees eventually had to be cut down to get rid of them.

Mr. Myring said the Canadian Forestry Association learned about the Avitrol chemical in a press release which was sent by the Alberta lands and forests department to all conservation warden in that province.

"I think most of the forestry association people are for this. We feel this is probably a good step in the right direction—nearly the solution of controlling pests and complicated birds."

without destroying them," he said.

The forestry association release stated: "This new method of bird control involves feeding small amounts of effective chemicals in suitable baits. Birds that consume the treated bait utter distress calls and react in such a manner that it causes unaffected birds to leave the area."

"The chemicals are toxic to birds when ingested in sufficient amounts, but by adjusting the concentrations in the bait and limiting the amount of food available to a flock, no mortality should occur under normal use."

Federal department of agriculture officials here were not available for comment Monday on the new chemical. Provincial fish and game officials said they were not familiar with it.

B.C.-Made Film Wins Award

A B.C.-made film has been chosen best outdoor documentary produced in Canada or the United States in 1964.

Valley of the Swans, produced by the provincial recreation and conservation department, received the citation from the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association.

Two other department productions, Tight Lines and Big Game Camera Holiday, earned honorable mention.

Variety Show Planned At Sirocco

There's a single-show variety bill at the Club Sirocco Saturday when a talent review punctuates the buffet dinner and dance to be staged under the banner of Pacific Stars of Tomorrow.

Screen and TV star Sebastian Cabot and Mrs. Cabot are to officiate at the opening of the show.

More Tryouts For Guild Play

Further tryouts for the play, The Helms, to be staged by the Victoria Theatre Guild, take place at the Langham Court Theatre 8 p.m. on Sunday.

The play is to be directed by Janet Smith and the search is on for new acting talent—to say nothing of those with interests in any of the various phases of backstage work.

Atlanta Pays Rare Tribute

ATLANTA—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. became a "prophet with honor" in his own home town when more than 1,500 of the Negro leader's fellow townsmen—white and Negro—attended in a plush downtown hotel ballroom to pay tribute to the winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize.

Never has there been anything like it for a Negro here.

Dr. King, currently deeply engaged in a new and militant phase of the racial revolution, returned to his home town from Selma, Ala., to prepare for the event honoring him.

Mayor Ivan Allen led the list of sponsors for an event that got off to a shaky start for lack of top civic backing. Once the ball got rolling, however, sponsors were swamped with ticket requests (at $6.50 each) and finally turned away more than 500 applicants.

Dr. King's wife and children, who rarely see him in action outside the pulpit of his father's church where he is assistant pastor, were at his side for his big evening.

Registration Squabble Finds 24 More Jailed

SELMIA, Ala. (UPI)—Sheriff's deputies jailed 24 more persons Wednesday in a continuing squabble over how many Negroes should be permitted in a voter registration line at one time.

Twenty of the arrests were made Wednesday morning. Four others, including a white woman civil rights worker, were jailed in the afternoon.

All were taken into custody for remaining in the voter registration line outside the Dallas County courthouse after being told to leave, or urging others to remain in line.

One hour later Patrolman Miller found another 1965 model car overturned. Brown was standing beside that car, again uninjured. Brown said both times he swerved to avoid another car and went out of control.

VANCOUVER—Two bank tellers said a bandit said "Sorry for the inconvenience" as he left with $8,000. They identified Gerald Martinelli, 22, as the armed man who robbed their bank Oct. 8. They were testifying at a preliminary hearing into a robbery charge against Martinelli.

Mayor's office makes Premier Bennett's look like a 'janitor's closet'

Committee room chairs: $85 each

'Affluent Cities' Still Cry Blues

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The appointments of Victoria's new city hall legislative wing were held up in the House Wednesday as a symbol of the affluence of B.C. municipalities.

Waldo Skillings (S.C.-Victoria) said the office of Mayor Wilson in the new wing, completed last fall at a cost of some $275,000, makes Premier Bennett's office by comparison look like a janitor's closet.

The city manager also has a distinguished office, said Mr. Skillings, and he told MLAs "you should see the committee room where they have 20 chairs costing $85 apiece."

Every alderman, the city member said, has his or her own office surrounded by glass. With this evidence and that of Vancouver's Mayor Rathie, who spent $40,000 of taxpayers' money on re-decorating his office, it's hard to reconcile reports that municipalities are broke, said Mr. Skillings.

"Yet you hear some of them, especially those who can unsuccessfully for office for the Liberals, complain—while spending money like this—that municipalities are not getting enough provincial grants," he said.

Mr. Skillings said with per capita grants, assistance for arterial highways, and the home-owner grants "no government in the history of B.C. has treated school board and municipalities better than this one."

Today's Speakers

Second night sitting of the current legislative session will be at 8 p.m. today. Speakers starting at 3 p.m. with Hansel Harding (N.D.P.-Kaslo-Slocan), include William Speare (S.C.-Carleton Place), Arthur Turner (N.D.P.-Vancouver East), Dan Campbell (S.C.-Nootka), John Squire (N.D.P.-Alberni).

Riding Proposal

He'd Give Oak Bay To Growing Saanich

Waldo Skillings (S.C.-Victoria) proposed in the House Wednesday that the 12,000 voters in Oak Bay become part of the Saanich provincial riding.

He suggested that the present Oak Bay seat be given to Saanich, which is growing rapidly and could use another member.

Mr. Skillings said the Oak Bay riding was "carved out" of what was part of the Victoria riding by former Coalition finance minister Herbert Anscomb.

It illustrated what the speaker termed "gerrymandering of pocket seats" by successive administrations over 50 years prior to Social Credit.

Alan Macfarlane (L.-Oak Bay), who followed the Victoria member's speech in the House Wednesday, said he believed the voters of Oak Bay were too intelligent to pay attention to Mr. Skillings' proposal.

Many seats throughout the province would doubtless "change hands," said Mr. Macfarlane, if the public was supplied with a verbatim account of proceedings in the legislature through a Hansard report.

'Like Campbell River'

Tempers Flare Twice At Merger Hearing

By BOB PETHICK

Tempers flared twice Thursday night at a View Royal amalgamation inquiry in spite of a warning by the commission chairman that the commission could fine or jail people who acted in contempt.

One irate ratepayer stalked from the meeting muttering "it was just the same as Campbell River" where the government has been accused of ramming incorporation down the throats of objecting ratepayers.

SIDE QUERIED

"Whose side are you on, Mr. Brown?" asked a ratepayer when deputy minister of municipal affairs J. E. Brown posed a hypothetical question of one of the ratepayers on the stand. Mr. Brown pointed out he was on no side and was conducting an inquiry.

"You sound too much like Perry Mason," shouted one ratepayer.

ORDER RESTORED

There was another call of "where's the swastika," before order was restored. Mr. Brown asked C. G. Bogg, 2711 Shoreline, if he would be opposed to amalgamation if in the long run the difference in taxes equalled out.

TAX ISSUE

Mr. Bogg was opposing amalgamation of the Christie Point area because he said his taxes would go up $58.83 and all he would get in return was garbage collection.

The commissioners were Mr. Brown, A. E. Beasley and George Argyle.

RECORD CROWD

The hearing was called to consider the amalgamation of the View Royal peninsula including Christie Point and the area up to Four Mile Hill bridge north-west of Admirals Road. At the hearing was a crowd of more than 170.

CONSIDERABLE DOUBT

Victoria lawyer Richard Ellis, representing the Christie Point Apartments, told the commission there was considerable doubt as to the validity of a number of consents obtained on the petition and the percentage of consents required under the Municipal Act was therefore in doubt.

He said revised figures showed 65 per cent of property owners of Admirals Road favored being included in Esquimalt while residents west of Admirals Road were 57 per cent against amalgamation.

CHRISTIE POINT

The loss of the Christie Point area was the concern of the View Royal area as a whole, Gamet Bulmer, chairman of the View Royal Ratepayers' Association, said.

He said loss of operating revenue for the View Royal fire department could necessitate an increase in taxation for property owners. He presented a petition representing more than two-thirds of eligible voters west of Admirals Road who were against amalgamation.

FIVE POSSIBILITIES

He said the association was considering five possibilities: remaining in the present state, forming a village, forming a town, forming a district municipality or joining the entire area with Esquimalt.

The meeting was adjourned until Feb. 2 to allow time to call expert witnesses to answer many questions put at last night's meeting.

Boundary commissioners Beasley, Brown and Argyle

All-Faith Memorial Planned for Cathedral

A state memorial service for Sir Winston Churchill will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in Christ Church Cathedral.

"All people of all faiths, all citizens are cordially invited to attend," said the Archbishop of British Columbia, in announcing details of the one-hour tribute.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will attend, as will Premier Bennett and his cabinet and members of the legislature. The mayor and aldermen, reeves and councillors will join other representatives of civic life in the community.

"The service itself is printed on special leaflets," said the archbishop.

Those taking part will be Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo, who will offer a prayer; Dean Brian Whitlow; Dr. J. L. W. McLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and Rev. Robert J. D. Morris of First United Church. Archbishop Harold Sexton, who was deputy chaplain of the official church of the House of Commons between 1924 and 1927 and acquainted with Sir Winston, will deliver a brief address and pronounce the blessing.

Before and after the service a coffee and pool will be run on the Cathedral bells, which are housed in a tower containing a brick laid by Sir Winston when he visited Victoria in 1923.

Second Step

Bastion Square Launched

First ground-breaking in Victoria's historic Bastion Square Wednesday marked the start of the second giant step in the city's multi-million dollar beautification scheme.

After city workers broke up part of the pavement in the square, drilling crews went into action to make test holes to determine the nature of the sub-soil.

"This is a necessary preliminary to the preparation of detailed working drawings," said Roderick Clark, special projects architect for the city.

TO TAKE TIME

Transformation of the square from a drab, commercial area in one of the most neglected parts of the city, to an attractive, colorful, landscaped and treed area where pedestrians will be able to rest, shop and find refreshment, will take several months.

"Now that we are underway we hope to get actual construction started in about six weeks," said Mr. Clark.

It is hoped that the work will be completed by early summer.

DUST FLYING

Reconstruction of the square will cost in the neighborhood of $70,000 exclusive of the cost of lighting, hydro services and underground wiring and sewerage.

Meanwhile, in the old courthouse building, which will house the B.C. Maritime Museum and will be the hub of the square the dust is flying.

Under the direction of Col. J. W. D. Symons, manager-curator of the museum, workmen are busy tearing partitions down on all three floors so architects and contractors can move in and convert it into a suitable museum.

Small rooms are being turned into big rooms and big rooms are being "uncluttered" to give maximum display space.

THIRD TO COME

Bastion Square is the second beautification project which is to be completed this year. The $3,000,000 Centennial Square complex is moving forward after a delay.

The third project, development of pedestrian malls on Broad Street and elsewhere in the downtown area, is still in the planning stage.

Langford Meeting Plans War on Algae

Worried parents at Langford Lake will hold a meeting Sunday to spark action on solution of the blue-green algae problem.

Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health last week warned residents of the danger of using lake water for domestic purposes or letting their children and pets drink or swim in it.

About 17 dogs died in the area late in 1964.

"We want action and we're going to find out where to get it," said Mrs. Alex Johnson, 1188 Goldstream.

All residents around the lake will be invited she said. Place and time of the meeting will be announced.

Residents of the area are worried about their children who swam in the lake last summer, Mrs. Johnson said. It was feared the poison might now be in their systems.

Parents Meet

The Parents Group of the Flying Y Swim Club will meet at 8 p.m. at the YMCA Building, Blanshard Street.

Timber Sales Help

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis did not think the water rate worked any hardship on consumers and Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed.

Well, said Mr. Upward, it was the lowest rate in Western Canada.

The commissioners pointed out that most of the profits did not come from water but from timber cut on the water district's property.

About 10,000,000 feet of timber were being cut every year and there was a stand left which should be good for 33.7 years.

Emphasizing that he was basing his statement on estimates only, Mr. Upward reckoned that the board would make about $55,800 in 1965 on timber sold.

From the board's inception up to 1960, during which time it was paying the city of Victoria for water installations, the board was "losing its shirt," Mr. Upward said. Since then, however, it had been a profitable operation.

The continuous yield policy was being used with regard to the board's timber reserves, Mr. Upward said. A new crop of logs would be available to the board in about 75 to 100 years.

The board re-established the 12½-cent rate for 1965.

Water Profits Pour Into Tunnel

By A. H. MURPHY

The $1,500,000 business, which is the Greater Victoria Water District, made about $350,000 last year—which money it will sock into a tunnel.

The water district is in such good shape that the $½-mile, $1,000,000 tunnel project, which will treble the area's water supply, will be paid for by the end of 1967.

By 1968 the board will be able to think about reducing rates. Failing that it will be able to start accumulating money to pay for expansion north on the Saanich Peninsula.

These facts came to light as Water Commissioner Ronald Upward went over the projected 1965 financial statement at a meeting of the water board in the mayor's office at city hall Wednesday.

Mr. Upward pointed out that the board has a surplus of more than $2,000,000 accumulated now as a reserve to pay for the tunnel through the Goldstream range to replace the meandering 27-mile main which now brings water to the city.

"The board could consider reducing the water rate right now from 12½ cents a unit (623 gallons) to 12 cents. This would hardly be practicable however if the board wishes to pay for the Sooke tunnel by the end of 1967," the water commissioner said.

Musical Combo of Skeletons Feature of Youngsters' Movie

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's enough to make you reel with laughter or fright—when teenagers load a movie camera and shoot to capture fact or fiction. Prize-winning makers of teen-age movies in a recent competition took their themes from the race for the moon, skeletons, World War II, jazz and super-hero James Bond.

Some of the films are short but the youngsters spent much time putting them together, making the sets, directing their buddies who acted in them, editing.

Guy Brown, 12, of Paramus, N.J., for example, spent 200 hours making his four-minute film called "Destination Moon."

It won a prize for him in the junior category of the contest sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Co. and included lifelike scenes of a rocket blasting off for the moon.

The first prize went to Dan

Agnew of Lafayette, Ind., who did a movie featuring a musical combo of skeletons playing the organ.

Mary Emery, 15, of Champaign, Ill., produced "The Inside Story"—showing the dissection of a fish, frog and white rat. She used reverse-camera tricks at the end, showing the frog being put back together again.

TECHNIQUE

The movies give an interesting view of contemporary teenagers.

The impression is that this generation has an amazing grasp of presentation and technique—an almost intuitive thing.

But it's not surprising, considering the extent of which they have been exposed to movies and television since their playpen days—especially during those condensed learning years which psychologists now believe stretch from birth to age six.

One movie occupied itself considerably with violence, action and intrigue. But when you studied it, you realized the 14-year-old who produced it—and the cast of youngsters working with him—were not taking the story or themselves very seriously at all.

Throughout, the teen-age film makers demonstrated a willingness to work and to learn.

One who parodied a popular adult comedy said he was motivated by "disgust for today's brutal type of film comedy."

A boy who did a creative jazz-on-film movie said he just wanted to be as original as possible.

The youngsters have more than a passing fancy in film work. All top winners in the senior category aim for careers in motion pictures.

Only Miss Emery, the only girl among the top winners, said she had no definite career plans, other than an interest in music and math.

Hospital's Human Side Told Best by Auxiliary Members

"It is only through people like yourselves that the human side of the hospital can be put before the public," Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital, told members of the Women's Auxiliary at their annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in the nurses' residence.

He urged the members to tour the hospital, if they hadn't done so lately, and take note of the many improvements being made. Some of the projects carried out during the past year included the well-equipped special area set aside for acutely ill patients and the new, improved emergency area with its large, attractive waiting room and four treatment rooms.

Dr. Anderson also told the meeting that two six-bed wards for children needing their tonsils removed, were now ready. He pointed out that formerly it was necessary to book two months in advance for a tonsillectomy but now it can be booked about two weeks ahead.

Mrs. Glenn Coffey in her president's report emphasized that the auxiliary was "first and always a service group."

"I hope that this oldest women's organization in this area can carry on for many more years."

The present Women's Auxiliary was formed about 60 years ago.

Mrs. Coffey, after two years in office as president, handed the gavel over to the new president, Mrs. Charles Riach. Other officers elected were Mrs. E. J. Harwood, first vice-president;

Council Clubs Meet Up-Island

CHEMAMUS—Theme for the evening at the January meeting of Chemamus Toastmasters Club, was "Ring out the old, ring in the new" with the president, Mrs. J. E. Hess, in charge.

Plans for the forthcoming council meeting, when the Chemamus Club will host member clubs of Council 10, were discussed, and it is hoped that members of newly formed Comorant Club of Alert Bay will attend. The meeting will be held Sunday, Feb. 7, in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Chemamus.

Mrs. H. Howden, as topic mistress, conducted a make-believe parliament and her speakers assumed the role of ministers. M. Mead, Toastmistress for the evening was Mrs. Russell Neff who was introduced by Mrs. George Jenkins. Speaker Mrs. Vernon McMahon gave a book review on The Liberal Hour by John Galbraith. Mrs. Lance Younger spoke on Christmas Cheer, which dealt with the distribution of hampers in the needy of Cowichan area.

Following a lesson on coherence in speeches by Mrs. K. V. Lopatecki, Mrs. L. H. Booth spoke on The Old Order Changes.

The inspirational and closing thoughts were by Mrs. N. Andruff, speech evaluators were Mrs. G. C. Powell and Mrs. W. G. Kennedy. General evaluator for the entire program was Mrs. J. E. Hess.

Mrs. W. T. Burley, second vice-president; Miss Edna Wallace, recording secretary; Mrs. A. Deas, treasurer; Mrs. J. C. B. Keane, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. S. C. Gray, membership.

Treasurer's report, given by Mrs. Deas, showed there was a balance of $9,777.65 in the bank at the end of 1962. This included a bank balance from 1963 of $3,496.15 and total receipts for $5,479.50. Included in the year's receipts were $1,481.89 for television rentals at hospital; $1,442.21 for baby photographs; $340.75 maternity project which included a showcase of knitted baby articles; $405.02 raised from the spring bridge tea and $351.82 from annual coffee party.

Disbursements for the year totalled $5,701.01. Some of the major purchases for the hospital, included in this sum, were 65 plastic bassinets, complete with mattresses, for $1,090.63; special infant resuscitator on maternity ward, $716.10; nine chairs for the eye ward, $365.71; three new television sets, $385.16 and cabinets in women's medical, $101.27.

Also included in disbursements were three Dominion Government bonds for $1,450.34 and donation of $400 to Lena Mitchell Bursary which was presented at the spring graduation exercises to Mrs. Fred Woodsworth.

Secretary's report, read by Miss Wallace, indicated there were 64 active members and 66 associate members. In addition to their fund raising projects the members also spent many hours preparing bandages for the hospital supply room. A total of 3,850 bandages were made and about 7,743 packages of dressings or bandages wrapped. Florence Nightingale lamps were also presented to the student nurses at capping ceremonies.

Mrs. J. A. Syme, purchasing agent for the hospital, was advised at the close of the meeting that the Auxiliary had voted $800 to purchase nine chromium beds for the children's ward and $1,200 for an isolette, new type of incubator, for maternity ward.

Other special guests were Canon R. K. Sampson, Anglican chaplain for the hospital, Miss Muriel Thompson, director of nurses, and Miss Margaret Plunkett, supervisor of maternity building.

Mrs. D. C. F. MacArthur was nominating chairman. In charge of refreshments, which followed the meeting, was Mrs. J. F. Hough, social convener. Pouring tea were Mrs. W. G. Thorpe and Mrs. H. G. Southin.

Russian Wedding Palaces Provide a Stylish Marriage

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—Marriage in the Soviet Union traditionally is about as unceremonious as a trip to the market.

Now a campaign is on to make it more meaningful.

More and more couples are getting married—or "registered" as it's called here—in so-called "wedding palaces" rather than in district registration centres where all civil marriages were performed until recent years.

The ceremony is much the same—there are no "dos" and no one pronounces the couple man and wife—but an effort is being made to surround it with more elegance and style.

In Moscow there are two wedding palaces, the older one four years old. All large cities now have them.

The buildings are rather plain—hardly the movie conception of a palace—but they're cheerful and well-lighted inside. They are roomier than registration centres—with an assortment of salons and waiting rooms, including one where the bride can adjust her veil and check her coiffure.

PALACES BUSY

Wedding palaces across the U.S.S.R. did a big business in the week just before New Year's Day. That's the popular time for matrimony here, the Soviet equivalent of June in Western countries.

An official of a wedding palace in Dzerzhinsky district of north-central Moscow, says there were 25 to 60 weddings a day in the last week of December. Ordinarily there are about 40.

If the figures make the place sound like a marriage factory, that's what it seems to be.

A wedding ceremony takes minutes. The young couple—only people 18 to 30 may be married at a palace—are ushered into a high-ceilinged, chandelier-hung room with two witnesses and sometimes a handful of parents and friends.

With recorded Mendelssohn playing in the background, they are addressed briefly by a woman dressed in black who counsels them to be attentive to one another and "safeguard your love," then ties the knot with:

"In accordance with the family and marriage law of the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic... we register this couple."

Wedding rings are exchanged—double-ring ceremonies are the style—and the newlyweds kiss. The ceremony is over.

As soon as one group leaves another is ushered in.

PARTY AT HOME

By custom a wedding party is held in the evening at the home of bride or groom, at a friend's home or in a rented hall. The newlyweds normally get three days off from their jobs. They spend the time in their new home; out-of-town honeymooners are not fashionable.

Miss Pushkova says an increasing number of brides wear veils and carry flowers, traditions seldom given much thought in the past.

The customary nervousness is one thing Russian couples have in common with those in other countries. Miss Pushkova mentioned one pair so nervous at their wedding they didn't remember anything about it except the red carpet.

"Later they came back and watched another ceremony just to see how it went."

Not far from the wedding palace is a clothing store, one of two in Moscow catering to couples planning to wed. Five others will soon be opened. A special pass is required to gain admission to the shops.

The cost of outfitting a bride is around 115 rubles, the equivalent of $140 Canadian, about 15 rubles more than a skilled factory hand earns in a month.

In dollar equivalents, the prices of individual items are: short dress $42-$48; veil $10; gloves $6.50 for short length and $8.50 for long; white shoes $38-$48; nylons $1.80; lingerie, including an $18 nightie, $36. There are no cloth coats on sale but fur coats are available at $600 to $850.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Webb of Broadview, Sask., announce the engagement of their daughter, Wilma, to Grant Fenwick, son of Mrs. R. Prowse of Victoria and the late Mr. C. R. Fenwick. The wedding is to take place Feb. 6 in Broadview. (Driftwood Photos)

Eloff-Davies

Wed in White Lace

A buxant, floor-length gown of white lace was chosen by Linda Anne Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davies, 263 Carnarvon Street, for her marriage to Mr. Donald Dorsey Eloff.

Tiny beads enhanced the scooped neckline of the gown's fitted bodice and her chapel-length veil misted from a lily of the valley headpiece, edged with matching beads. Bride's only jewelry was a string of cultured pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a cascade of pink rosebuds and white feathered carnations.

Pink and white snapdragons and carnations decorated Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints for the double-ring ceremony performed by Mr. John Harrington. Mrs. L. Fraser sang O Perfect Love, and Col. H. G. Morgan was organist.

Bridesmaid, Miss Karen Brown of Royston, B.C., was in a pink nylon tulle gown styled with knee-length belted skirt which fell into a short train. She wore a white rose and tulle headpiece and carried white eucalyptus bouquet. Miss Carol Davies, as her sister's other bridesmaid, wore a similarly styled gown in white. Her headpiece was a pink rose with matching tulle and she carried a tanning colonial bouquet. They both wore a single pearl pendant, gift of the bride.

Mr. Harold Eloff of Prince George, B.C., was best man for his brother, Mr. Brian Wilson and Mr. Ron Davies, bride's brother, were ushers.

Mr. Warren Cameron proposed the toast to the bride at a reception which followed in the Gorge Vale Golf Club. A three-tiered cake, made by bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. Davies, and decorated by Mr. R. Crockett, centred the head table.

For a honeymoon up-Island the bride donned an Italian-knit dress of coral and an original floral hat to match. She wore a brown top coat and matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Eloff are now making their home at 989 Wolston Street.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. R. Bannick, Coleman, Alta; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eloff, Calgary; Mrs. G. Trower, Cranbrook, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Noel Cutler, Nelson, B.C.; Miss Diana Dron, Mr. Glen Toy, Vancouver; Mrs. A. Prior, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hawthorne, Mr. and Mrs. W. Prior.

Puppet Show Planned For Party

Business meeting of the Junior Auxiliary to the B.C. Protestant Orphans' Home was held recently at the Home.

Regular purchases of Halibut and oranges were authorized for the month.

Plans were made for a St. Valentine's Day Party for the children to be held Feb. 13th. The children will be entertained with games and a puppet show, and refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Thomson, Port Alberni; Mrs. R. D. Marshall, Nanaimo; Mrs. S. Vata-S. Swanson, all of Alberni; Mr. Maniuck, Miss Diane Thomson, and Mrs. G. Marshall and Brent, Campbell River.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Statham, 2946 Leigh Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Gail, to Lawrence John Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Patterson, 1503 Charlton Road. Rev. H. R. Whitmore will officiate at the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 20 in Garden City United Church. (Kandid Kamera)

Saturday Wedding

Whirl of Parties For Ruth Green

Mr. and Mrs. J. Maurice Green entertained at afternoon tea in their Smugglers Cove home in honor of their daughter, Ruth, and her fiancé, Mr. Brian Hitchens, following rehearsal for their wedding which takes place on Saturday. Members of the wedding party were among the 20 invited guests.

Whirl of parties continue to fill Miss Green's social calendar prior to her wedding. She was entertained recently at a linen shower given recently by Mrs. W. W. Lewis and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard Lewis, in the Smugglers Cove home of the former.

Corsages were presented to the bride-elect; her mother, Mrs. Green, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. F. G. Hitchens. A decorated pink and blue umbrella held the many gifts.

Mrs. Green and Mrs. Hitchens presided at the tea table, which was centred with an attractive arrangement of white chrysanthemums.

Miss Linda Snider entertained in honor of Ruth Green at a kitchen shower in the Grandview Drive home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Snider. Replica of a modern house, decorated in red and white, contained gifts from the 16 guests present at the shower. Corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother and the groom-elect's mother.

Purple Star Plans Party

Plans for the 53rd anniversary banquet were made at a meeting of Victoria Purple Star No. 104, LOBA, with Mrs. A. Hamilton presiding. The banquet is to take place Feb. 3 at 6:30 p.m. in Mayfair Lane banquet room. Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. J. Bradshaw are in charge of reservations which are to be made before Jan. 31.

Plans were also discussed for R. W. Grand Lodge sessions to be held at the Empress Hotel in April.

PERSONAL MENTION

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will attend the joint installation of the Oak Bay-Victoria Kiwanis Clubs on Friday.

Vancouver Wedding

Mrs. D. Lasseter of Fulford announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Alice, to Kenneth Lewis of Pentecost, B.C. The quiet family wedding was held at St. Helen's Anglican Church in Vancouver with Canon J. Robertson officiating. After the honeymoon, the young couple will live in Pentecost.

Returns to Ontario

Mr. John A. Pearce of Toronto, Ont., who has been a guest at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lyle Balfour, 426 Chester Avenue, for the past month, has returned home.

To Marry Feb. 13

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Goldsberry, 4036 Cumberland Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Dianne Beatrice, to Mr. Barry Bissenden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm G. Bissenden, 1470 Ash Road. The wedding will take place at 7 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 13, in St. Aidan's Church.

Ottawa Visitors

Senator J. B. Buchanan and Mrs. Buchanan arrived in Victoria Tuesday to spend a month in the city. They will be staying at the Empress Hotel, and plan to return to their home in Ottawa in late February.

Forthcoming Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hocking, 3050 Westdowne Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Wendy Margaret, to Lieut. William Douglas McKay, 1st Battalion QOR of Canada, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKay, Cranbrook, B.C. The wedding will take place at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 6, at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, with Canon Hywel J. Jones officiating.

Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beecroft, 4010 Grange Road, will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary on Sunday. To mark the occasion they will entertain at an "open house" from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and again in the evening starting at 7 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Beecroft were married Jan. 31, 1940, in Douglas Street Baptist Church. They have one son, Mr. Wayne Beecroft, Langford; two daughters, Mrs. John Dejong, Victoria, and Linda at home.

French fried potatoes with broiled fish covered with a lemon butter sauce make an appetizing meals for guests—or just family.

Broiled Fish Tasty With Lemon, Herbs

With Lenten days ahead, there soon will be more fish and fish dishes served on Canadian tables. Broiled fish makes an excellent entrée at any time of the year, however; and you can't go wrong with family or guests when you partner it with crisp, delicious frozen French fries which are so easy to prepare at the same time in the broiler itself.

Herb Lemon Butter makes an ideal and flavorful sauce for the fish, and you can add a gourmet touch to those favorite French fries, too, by drizzling a bit of the butter over them as they crisp to perfection.

Serve with a mixed vegetable salad or another hot vegetable of your choice, and for dessert offer generous slices of apple or cherry pie. Basically this is a simple menu, thanks especially to the convenience of the frozen fries; but it has a company air to it. You can repeat it often, and win compliments every time.

BROILED FISH WITH HERB LEMON BUTTER

One quarter cup butter or margarine; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon chervil; $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon tarragon leaves; 2 packages (9 ounce each) or 1 package (1 pound) frozen French fries; 1 teaspoon salt; 3

Combine butter or margarine, lemon juice, chervil and tarragon leaves. Heat just until butter or margarine melts. Place fish on broiler rack in pan. Broil four to five inches from heat source until cooked to desired degree of doneness. Arrange French fries in shallow foil pan; sprinkle with salt. Ten to 12 minutes before fish is done place pan of French fries on broil pan. When lightly browned, five to seven minutes, turn potatoes and drizzle with 3 tablespoons herb lemon butter sauce; continue heating about five minutes, or until crisped to taste. Drizzle remaining butter sauce over trout before serving. Yield: four servings.

Our Man In The Kitchen —HYMAN GOLDBERG—

The football season is long over, but we just heard a story about a college football player who, though he had no trouble at all learning and remembering the intricate plays taught him by the coach, just could not remember anything at all that the teachers tried to drill into his mind in the classrooms. But, since he was one of the more valuable players on the varsity team, some of the teachers went out of their way to give him every aid.

This was supposed to have happened in chemistry — his other courses included folk dancing, basket weaving and kite flying—and the instructor was giving him a special examination just before the big game of the year.

"Do you know the chemical formula for gold?" asked the instructor. The football scholar shook his head sadly. "I'm afraid, sir," he said, "that I don't know the chemical formula for gold."

The teacher leaped to his feet and clapped the athlete on the shoulder. "That's the right answer," he cried out, "you don't know the chemical formula for gold." Here is a good formula for:

SHRIMP IN CAPER SAUCE

One pound shrimp; 2 eggs, hard boiled; 2 tablespoons butter (or margarine); 1 tablespoon flour; $\frac{1}{2}$ cups milk; 1 table-chopped fine; $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon lemon juice; salt and pepper to taste; $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon paprika.

If your shrimp are fresh, remove the shells and devein them. If they're frozen, cook according to direction on package. In either case, boil them in salted water to which you have added a bay leaf and 3 or 4 peppercorns, just until the shrimp become pink and white. Put the eggs in a pot with cold water to cover them, bring the water to the boil and then simmer for 8 minutes. Plunge them into cold water at end of 8 minutes.

Okay. You've got the shrimp and the eggs boiled, right? Melt the butter in a saucepan, stir in the flour, add the milk, capers, lemon juice and salt and pepper. Keep the heat low and don't let it boil. Cut the eggs in half, mash the yolks and add this to the sauce, stirring, until the mixture is quite smooth. Put the shrimp into the saucepan, add the egg whites, which should be chopped, stir and pour everything into a heated platter. Sprinkle with the paprika and serve to 3, maybe 4 people. Plain white boiled rice is good with this. And so is a green salad with equal parts of lemon juice and olive oil and some salt and pepper and maybe a clove or two of garlic, pressed, and scattered all through the salad. Or maybe you'd like garlic bread?

'Pretty Lady' Colors

MONTREAL—Fashion will be wearing a pale face in 1963.

"Pretty Lady" colors, as fashion authority Jennifer Lindsay dubbed them, will dominate Canadian ready-to-wear styles with a soft, feminine appeal in the spring and summer.

Mrs. Lindsay demonstrated the "paleface" look, at the National Collection preview for Canada's fashion press.

The show, was sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, featured designs by more than one hundred fashion houses in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver.

According to Mrs. Lindsay, color is the big news in Canadian fashion for the coming season. White emerges as a strong contender for top honors in all categories with soft, delicate celery greens and fragrant pinks vying with each other for second spot. Result: pale makeup will be de rigueur.

Fabrics create interest with a great many checks—small, large, broken, houndstooth and windowpane in both wool and man-made fibers. Woven fabrics in different weights have a definite look of linen. They add a crispness to suits and dresses that breathe femininity. Printed chiffon softens the top of a dress and jacket costume or floats airily in the skirt of a bias-cut evening dress.

There is a military look in rainwear with belted coats in pale shades and hooded scooter suits fastened by oversized zip-pers.

Spring's important dress coat appeared in the National Collection show in three different types of fabric, the most noteworthy being in navy blue with a fresh white collar.

The longer jacket suit will be a hit with Canadian women in the coming season. It will be nautical in navy blue wool with brass buttons, military in beige cord or dressy in a woven fabric from Switzerland.

Skirts are alive with motion—in pleats, flares, gores and bias cuts.

The look of Camel is much in evidence. It's either pure camel hair or combined with cashmere, sometimes accented by a pale beige shade. Featured in the show was a slack suit with a completely new cut to the slacks which had an instep slit.

The pale face of fashion was emphasized in a group of celery green outfits. One two-piece dress was in chiffon wool, sleeveless and cut on the bias, the front tied by a bow of matching satin.

'Too Much Snobbery on Wine Scene'

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copy News Service

Ignore that supercilious waiter who looks down his nose at you when you order an inexpensive wine in a public eating place says Michael Dougherty of Los Angeles, a wine expert.

"He probably doesn't know much more about wine than you do," said Dougherty, who has written a booklet, "A No-Nonsense Guide to Wine Enjoyment."

"The enjoyment of wine does not depend on what you paid for it, but on how it tastes to you," he declared in a recent interview.

"There is too much snobbery on the wine scene," he added.

He believes that beginners to wine enjoyment should ignore the accepted rules for food and wine combinations, glassware and accessories and concentrate on the wines that are most pleasing to their palate.

Easy-to-make pizza is served with red wine.

"The profusion of wine types is frightening to the uninitiated," he said. "That is why I reduced them to a basic twelve wines. These in turn are divided into four categories."

The four categories are dessert, appetizer, table, and sparkling wines.

Under the dessert heading he lists port, cream sherry and muscatel.

Appetizer wines include dry sherry, dry vermouth and natural flavored wines.

Champagne is listed as a sparkling wine.

"These are the wines you really need to know about, the types to select in starting your career of wine enjoyment," Dougherty said. "Individual tastes vary, so some of these wines might appeal to you more than others," he continued.

NOAH'S DISCOVERY

"Wine is one of the oldest beverages known to man," he pointed out. "According to legend, Noah was the first to discover wine, and the Bible makes many references to the beverage."

Wines are made entirely of fresh, ripe grapes. No extraneous materials of any kind may be added to wines, except for certain herbs and natural flavors which are necessary to create vermouth and the natural flavored wines," he said. "Dessert and appetizer wines are fortified with grape brandy."

Most people believe that white table wines go better with white meats, fish and egg dishes, and red table wines with red meats, spaghetti, and highly seasoned foods.

"This is not entirely so," the wine expert said. "Many wine lovers drink their favorite wine, whether red or white, with any food. Let your own taste be your guide."

TEMPERATURE

The serving temperature of wines is another controversial subject, according to Dougherty.

"Pink and white table wines usually are chilled in the refrigerator and natural flavored wines and champagne are traditionally served icy cold. Other wines are usually served at 'room temperature.'"

"Room temperature abroad, where homes are not heated to the degree they are here, means about 55 degrees. Room temperature here is approximately 70 degrees or higher," he explained.

He suggests that probably a place somewhere in the middle might be the answer.

Another fallacy is that certain wines must be served in certain glasses, Dougherty says.

"Wine can be served in any glass. If you have traditional wine glasses, fine. If not, any glass will do," he said.

A simple rule to use when cooking with wine is to substitute wine for half the liquid called for in a recipe, Dougherty said.

"You don't need any special wine. Just use the same wine you are serving with food," he explained. "The alcohol evaporates when wine is exposed to heat, leaving only the delicious flavor," he added.

There is hardly a food that doesn't take kindly to wine flavor, according to Dougherty.

Among foods which gain flavor dividends by addition of wine is pizza. An easy-to-make pizza made with biscuit mix calls for wine as a flavor accent.

EASY PIZZA

One (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with mushrooms; 1/2 cup Burgundy or other red dinner wine; 2 tps. cornstarch; 1/4 tsp. crumbled dried oregano; 1/4 tsp. garlic salt; 1 1/2 cups biscuit mix; 1/2 cup water; 1 (5-oz.) pkg. sliced salami; 1 (6-oz.) pkg. Mozzarella cheese; 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese.

Blend tomato sauce, wine, cornstarch, oregano and garlic salt together. Heat, stirring a few minutes until sauce thickens slightly. Set aside while preparing dough. Combine biscuit mix and water to make stiff dough; shape into a ball. Roll out on floured board to 10 to 12-inch circle. Fit into pizza pan; press down dough around outer edge to form a one-inch rim. Spread dough with part of tomato sauce. Top with salami (cut in pieces or rolled into small cones). Add pieces of Mozzarella cheese. Spoon on remaining sauce. Sprinkle with Parmesan and a little additional oregano, if desired. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) about 15 minutes, until dough is lightly browned and topping bubbly and hot. Cut into wedges to serve.

Comitas Club Ready For Busy Weekend

This weekend will be a busy one for members of the Comitas Club, Victoria Chapter. Joined by members of the Vancouver Chapter, they will attend events marking the 27th annual meeting of the local group, as well as an initiation ceremony. Installation of officers and social affairs.

Presiding over the weekend's activities will be retiring president, Mrs. R. C. Newby, who will initiate a new member, Miss Ulah Jacobson.

The View Royal home of honorary life member Mrs. D. Gordon Ferguson will be the scene of a dessert party, Saturday afternoon. This will be followed by a meeting of the President's Council. Miss Verna M. Beck will preside.

Mrs. Leo Bawlf will be installed as president at the annual meeting and installation that follows a dinner to be held in the Princess Charlotte Room of the Empress Hotel, Saturday evening.

Also installed will be the vice-president, Mrs. Walter Hughes; recording secretary, Mrs. R. L. Buller; correspondence, Mrs. Robert Gale; treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Tysoe; social convener, Mrs. Allan Lath; sunshine, Mrs. Vincent Smith; publicity, Miss Patricia Holden; charity, Mrs. Kenneth Murphy; and entertainment, Mrs. Norman Hartley.

Miss Beck will be the installing officer and Mrs. Ivan Flett will be in charge of the entertainment program that completes the evening's activities.

Miss Jacobson and the Vancouver visitors will be special guests at a buffet luncheon, to be held in the Miramonte Drive home of Mrs. G. W. Hughes, Sunday. Attending from the Mainland will be Mrs. O. Webster, Mrs. H. Taylor, Mrs. K. P. Updell, Mrs. J. N. Bodell, Mrs. D. A. Bell and Mrs. W. R. Dallimore.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a pale yellow gown of nylon and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations. Miss Helen Bickerdike, groom's niece, was the bride's only attendant.

Mr. John Craft, bride's uncle from Victoria, was best man. For her going-away ensemble the bride chose a two-piece white wool suit and matching hat. Her accessories were black.

YEAR'S HIGHLIGHTS
Highlights of the past year's activities have included several literary programs, featuring local speakers and book reviews by Victoria members. Donations were made as follows: the sum of $150 to the University of Victoria, to be used for a sewing machine for one of the women's residences, and a $50 scholarship, presented to Miss Teresa Poisson, a student at the local university.

Married At Home Of Bride

Peggy Aitken became the bride of Mr. Robert A. Baker at a quiet family wedding held at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Aitken of Sooke. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Baker also of Sooke. Rev. A. M. Beaton officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am ashamed to have to ask you such a ridiculous question but I am at the end of my rope with this nut who is my husband.

Four months ago I gave birth to twin boys. Jake (my husband) was so proud he gave cigars to strangers on the street. Two weeks ago Jake got it into his head that the dark twin is his but the light twin belongs to someone else.

The twins look nothing alike but this does not mean they had different fathers, does it? My family is light haired and blue-eyed, and our six-year-old son is a picture of my father. One of the twins resembles that boy.

I have searched through two medical books but I don't understand the language. I am trying to prove to my husband that it is impossible for twins to have different fathers.

Can you help me?—ABOUT TO FLIP.

Dear Lid: It is possible for twins to be fathered by separate males, but such cases are so rare they are considered medical phenomena.

The fact that the twins do not look alike means only that they are fraternal, and not identical, twins. Your doctor can (and should) explain the difference to your husband. I hope my reply will shut his mouth until you can get him to the doctor.

Dear Ann Landers: Millions of people in this country share the misery of the hard of hearing woman who wrote to you. These folks suffer no physical pain and they don't look different from other people, but often they are gripped by feelings of inadequacy which can be self-defeating.

A friend or relative can help by being patient and instilling confidence. When there is no such help forthcoming, the hard of hearing can embark on a program of self-help.

Hearing aids have been improved and more should be written about them. A hearing aid can be a great boost to self-confidence which has been shattered and needs to be rebuilt.

The person who is hard of hearing can develop alertness and train himself to speak carefully so that his pronunciation does not deteriorate. He should be aware that family, friends and associates may not understand his problem and be willing to forgive their lack of compassion.—LONGTIME WORKER IN THE FIELD.

Dear Worker: I, too, am a firm believer in self-help. Thank you for a letter which reflects a generous spirit and offers good advice.

Full Skirts Paris News

PARIS (Reuters)—Pierre Balmain today was the first Paris house to settle down to the serious business of fashion, contrasting the gay young boutique-type clothes featured by designers on the opening day.

Balmain's new silhouette was based on a full skirt and small waistlines marked with leather belts. Skirts actually employed as much fabric as the famous new-look models in 1947, but the effect was never as voluminous.

Soft pleats, gathers and overlaid fullness were skillfully worked to avoid the impression of bulk. Sunbursts and box-pleats commenced from the natural waistline on suit-skirts, paired with snugly fitted jackets.

One of Balmain's typical suits had a short fitted jacket with a small collar set close to the neckline, the skirt widened by encrusted pleats.

Details included a smooth waistline underlined by a narrow leather belt and the hemline collar and buttonholes braided in a contrasting color pattern.

Balmain employed an inch-wide turtle-neck collar or a band of fabric faced round the neck on dresses and printed suit blouses.

Peach of a Plum

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRANK

While browsing through a nursery catalogue the other day, I was rather surprised to see the Washington plum listed. I haven't run across a tree of this fine old variety for some time, and I don't know why it should be planted so infrequently nowadays, for while the modern varieties bear bigger fruits and heavier crops, few have the melting, honey-like flavor of Washington.

The story of the origin of this plum makes interesting reading. Along about the year 1790, a Mr. Bolmar bought a young plum tree from a market woman who had a stall near the Fulton Street fish market in New York.

into superheated steam by the passage of the lightning bolt, and it was destroyed right down to ground level.

The following year, though, strong growths or suckers arose from the old roots, and these started to blossom very early in life, bearing the delicious fruit we know today as the Washington plum.

It is interesting to speculate on what could have caused the change in the tree. It might have been simple mechanical shock, as when we bark-ring or root-prune a reluctant fruit tree to curb excess vigor and induce it to bear fruit.

Or some strange chemical may have been produced by the electrolytic action of the lightning which worked in the same manner as colchicine, an alkaloid poison extracted from the autumn crocus which has the power to double the number of chromosomes in plant cells, thereby producing new varieties.

An even more interesting possibility, though, is that a certain amount of atomic energy was released by the lightning bolt. In this case, the Washington plum could be the first new plant created by atomic radiation, 150 years before the first atom bomb!

Speaking of atomic energy, the garden magazines have been carrying advertisements for the last couple of years offering seeds of various flowers and vegetables which have been subjected to irradiation from a cobalt bomb, the kind used for cancer treatment.

The idea, of course, is that these seeds should produce an unusual number of sports or mutants, and from these, new and better varieties could be developed.

I have seen these irradiated seeds on sale locally, offered at three or four times the price of ordinary seed packets.

On the whole, results have been disappointing. I know of a couple of pretty good marigolds which were created by bombarding seeds with ordinary X-rays, but most of the plants grown from high-priced irradiated seeds have been disgustingly normal or hopelessly deformed cripples.

Shocking Record, Says ART BUCHWALD

Grown-Ups Major Problem

There has been so much discussion lately about teen-age problems that the grown-up problem is practically being ignored. And yet if you pick up a newspaper, you realize grown-ups are responsible for some of the most serious problems ever faced.

For example, 60 per cent of all crime is committed by grown-ups.

The birth rate among grown-up women is four times that of teen-agers.

The divorce rate is double.

The purchasing power of grown-ups almost exceeds that of teen-agers.

Grown-ups are responsible for more daytime accidents than any other age group.

The source of these statistics is sociology Prof. Heinrich Applebaum, BA, MS, LL.D., YEH, YEH, YEH, who told me in an exclusive interview that his studies showed grown-ups were drifting farther away from society all the time.

"The average grown-up," Prof. Applebaum said, "feels his children don't understand him. The more time he spends with them the less they communicate with him. So the adult feels isolated, insecure, and misunderstood."

"In defense he seeks out other grown-ups who feel the same way he does. Pretty soon they form gangs, go to the theatre together, hold cocktail parties and dances, and before you know it you have a complete breakdown of the family."

"Why do you think grown-ups are constantly rebelling against their children, Professor?"

"I guess it's an age-old old-age problem. You have parents wanting to break away and yet not having the nerve to cut the ties completely. Grown-ups are afraid to stand up to their children, so they rebel against society instead."

"Do you think teen-agers could in some way be responsible for the behavior of their parents?"

"I definitely do," the professor said. "Grown-ups try to emulate teen-agers. They want to do exactly what teen-agers do, which is to drink, smoke, and drive fast cars. If teen-agers didn't do these things, their parents wouldn't. For every bad adult, I'm sure you'll find a bad teen-ager somewhere in the background."

"Where do you think the trouble starts?"

"In the home. Teen-agers are too rough on their parents. They're always criticizing them for listening to Frank Sinatra records and reading Holiday magazine."

"Teen-agers don't have any patience with their mothers and fathers. They can't understand why their parents like Doris Day and Rock Hudson movies or what they see in Cary Grant."

"If teen-agers spent more time with grown-ups and tried to understand them, I don't think you'd have half the trouble that you have today."

"Do you mean teen-agers should spend more time at home with their parents?"

"Of course. Grown-ups need security. They want to know where their children are. They want the feeling they belong. Only teen-agers can give grown-ups this feeling."

"Professor, have you found any homes where grown-ups are leading healthy, normal, secure lives, thanks to the attention they've received from their loving teen-age children?"

"We haven't yet. But we've been looking only a year. These surveys take time."

LONDON (NANA)—The Sidney Polliers seem to have parted permanently. They have been apart for some time now and a divorce is on the agenda. Dinah Carroll was in London doing the town with the popular actor before he took off for his watery location in The Bedford Incident.

Kim Novak's most attractive beau, Richard Johnson, had to leave Kim in California for two days of dubbing in London of their Amorous Adventures of Kim Novak—I mean Moll Flanders, but he has flown back to California and Kim. They both return to Europe in about 10 days for a ski holiday in Switzerland. You know something, this is beginning to look serious. Like marriage. At least Richard has lasted longer and more intensely than Kim's previous beaus.

The Cornet Wildes have rented a home in London while he edits The Naked Prey. . . The Ad Lib, favorite haunt of the Beatles, has reopened after its burning down several months ago, and Beatle Paul usually pops in with Jane Asher after his show.

Linda Christian took her children and self to stay with King Hussein and his Queen in Jordan. While Linda's husband Edmund Furdum has been in London turning down the offer to succeed Laurence Harvey in Camelot. Paul Dannon will. During these past years when I assumed Edmund was having a rough time financially because acting jobs were non-existent, not only has he made a load of money this past year, but he has also been earning about $100,000 from the royalties of his invention for a record player. So you can see why he didn't want to tie himself down to anything as tying down as a costume musical play.

Rock Hudson and Doris Day may like to know that all the reviewers here liked their comedy, Send Me No Flowers. . . while Gina Lollobrigida is plotting her lawsuit against the producers of Return From the Ashes, from which she was recently removed, Sweden's Ingrid Thulin has taken over the role.

James Mason joins Henry Fonda in Berlin for The Secret War, directed by Terence Young. His fourth picture in almost as many months. James is jumping. He has a lot of alimony to pay, and this is one reason he works over here. He has always been a bigger star in Europe than he ever was in Hollywood.

Bette Davis was likened to a battleship that cannot be sunk in the reviews here for her latest film, Where Love Has Gone. They are not much for violence, the British, although they are candid on the screen and television. Which brings me to a new television show with no commas in the title, Not So Much A Program More A Way Of Life. It is the Saturday night successor to That Was The Week That Was, and is not half as good. It rambles on and experiments with this and that, and of course it is ad lib and unrehearsed. They have been given a great deal of leeway in the hope they will come up one Saturday night with something good. Could this kind of confidence ever happen in the U.S.?

Happy Marriage Formula

By Dr. STUART ROSENBERG

- Be careful when your husband is angry—be neither gay nor cross—just smile and speak softly.
- Do not keep him waiting for his meals. Hunger is the father of anger.
- Do not wake him when he is sleeping.
- Be careful of his money: do not keep any money matters from him.
- He keeps his secrets secret, too.
- Do not like his enemies or hate his friends.
- Do not disagree with him or suggest that your advice is better than his.

- Do not expect the impossible from him.
- If you heed his requests, he will turn out to be your slave.
- Do not say anything that will hurt him. If you treat him like a king, he will treat you like a queen.

These "10 commandments" are taken from a 17th-century best-seller, originally written by a Jewish scholar for the benefit of his own daughter, as a guide to successful marriage.

But Isaac of Posen, the author, wrote his rules in the pre-democratic age, when men were kings and women were subjects. Those were the unsophisticated years when it was assumed that obedient wives produced happy husbands.

Moreover, it was safely, if incorrectly, believed that if men were happy, women would necessarily be happy, too. Thus, our friend Isaac suggests a royal charter—"treat him like a king: he will treat you like a queen!"

We now seem to know better. Most women, one suspects, would rather not be treated as queens; they would prefer being women—equal in status with their men, yet respected for their feminine, wisely and motherly qualities.

Women whose husbands find happiness in dominating them can never be truly and happily wedded. For a marriage of two people, one of whom must rule with flags waving and bands playing, results in an incomplete if not a false union.

Two people can never—should never—become one; for this must mean that one of them had become "two": it is impossible to be one-self if one is only half himself. One plus one equals two—forever! We need to respect the integrity of our life-partners, never reducing them to a pale reflection of our own shadows.

Real happiness in marriage—like happiness in all other human relations—comes from shared experiences based upon half-slave and half-free.

a recognition of our interdependence.

Dependent women wedded to queens; they would prefer being women—equal in status with their men, yet respected for their feminine, wisely and motherly qualities.

An interdependent partner is one who is strong enough to "go it alone," yet wise enough to share his thinking and decision-making with someone he cares for. He realizes that "going it alone" may create independence, but that marriage, to be successful, must be based upon a shared declaration of interdependence.

Thus, if men want happy wives, they, too, must be governed by the same rules they would ask their women to follow. There can be no real standards, unless they are based upon a single standard. For no home, like no nation, can long endure shared experiences based upon half-slave and half-free.

Productivity Praised

'Keeps B.C. Yards Competitive Despite Higher Pay'

By DON GAIN

High wages in B.C. shipyards should not be blamed for naval contracts going to eastern shipyards, Victoria and District Metal Trades Council secretary-treasurer John MacNeil said Wednesday.

Mr. MacNeil said productivity of west coast shipyards is so much higher than that of eastern yards that it offsets the higher wages in B.C.

The council's new president, Andrew Manson, will continue the program of retiring president James McConachy, which was to get more naval work for Victoria shipyards, he said.

LOWEST BID

"The efforts consist of putting our views before the government, of explaining the exaggeration of views on the difference in wages."

"Victoria Machinery Depot was able to underbid any shipyard in North America on the ferries," he said.

"On the building of HMCS Fraser and the minesweepers by Yarrow over 1,000,000 man hours were saved."

COSTS COMPARED

"We also feel that a merchant marine should be added to the naval program."

"On the construction of this class of ship Yarrow built the Prince George in 1948 for $533 a ton."

"The following year the Princess Marguerite was built in the Old Country at a cost of $578 a ton."

NOT OUT OF LINE

Such comparisons prove that B.C. shipyards are not out of line, he said.

"Our productivity on the west coast is so much higher than in eastern shipyards that it offsets the wages."

At the annual meeting Tuesday night the council elected Mr. Manson president. He is business agent for Victoria Shipyard Riggers Local 643.

Other officers elected were Arthur Vanzetta, vice-president; John MacNeil, secretary-treasurer; Chester Preston, sergeant-at-arms; Will Cooney, Al Ross and Orla Lalonde, trustees.

A vote of thanks was carried for retiring president McConachy for his efforts on behalf of the council and affiliated unions. He will remain as a delegate to council.

The council represents 12 unions with a combined membership of 4,500.

Merger 'Illegal Expediency'

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter
Municipal Affairs Minister
Dan Campbell was charged in the House Wednesday with "riding roughshod" over the people of the Campbell River area in creating a new district municipality last month.

Alan Macfarlane (L-Oak Bay) said the vote held in Campbell River village and four surrounding areas last Dec. 12 was of the minister's own creation and was not authorized by the Municipal Act.

The legislature should put a halt to a second vote, which the minister proposes to hold Feb. 6 in North Campbell River and Quinsam, because it was a further violation of the people's rights, said Mr. Macfarlane.

"I strongly protest the action of this government in acting outside the law," the Liberal member said, "in ignoring the rights of people under the laws as they exist, and in the placing of expediency over and above the law and the people's rights."

Mr. Macfarlane said the minister's objectives in seeking to create the new district municipality might have been good, but the law was not in the minister's hands.

"The law has been ignored," said Mr. Macfarlane. "The rights of the people have been ignored, all in the name of expediency."

He said the minister thought creation of a district municipality in the Campbell River area would be a good thing and came to the conclusion this would also be a popular thing with certain residents of the area.

Despite the fact Mr. Campbell had no authority to do so in the Municipal Act, a vote on the question of amalgamation was held Dec. 12, and within five days he had "illegally" incorporated the new municipality by letters patent.

The new municipality consisted of the village of Campbell River and part of the Willow Point water district. Oyster River was excluded, but Mr. Campbell didn't give up hope for the ultimate inclusion of North Campbell River and Quinsam.

So a second vote was scheduled for early next month to give the residents of the latter two districts another chance to express their views.

Mr. Macfarlane predicted the minister would shortly come before the legislature "in the name of expediency" to ask for validating legislation to make legal what was illegal at the time it was done.

"Expediency is no excuse for acting outside the law," said Mr. Macfarlane. "If it were then no one in our society would know, from day to day, what rights they had or what lay in store for them."

The Liberal member warned the House that the Campbell River affair was "only the first step" and, if the lack of respect for the law was condoned, other violations of people's rights would follow.

Mayer

A Big Fuss Over Fizz

VANCOUVER (CP)—The possible slandering of a soft drink has bubbled into a fizzy labor dispute here.

The teamsters union said Tuesday night it plans action against Seven-Up Vancouver Ltd., to protest the suspension of driver-salesman Ernest Mayer.

The company said Mayer is suspended until it is decided whether he did slander its product, Mayer said the company says he used a vulgarism when referring to the company product.

Mayer, 32, father of three and two-time winner of the company's top salesman award in the eight years he has worked for it, said he did not slander the product and is loyal to the company.

He said last Friday he and other salesmen were putting in their daily reports when one, Ed Escaravage, spilled a bottle of Seven-Up.

"He said 'Oops, I've spilled the burpo' and we all laughed,"

He explained Burpo is the soft-drink industry's equivalent to Brand X on television. In the soft drink industry it was an unwritten law that slang be used to refer to a competitor's product.

Mayer said that he said to Escaravage: "What did you call that stuff? That's Seven-Up."

Ed Lawson, president of the teamsters joint council here, said Mayer was a key man in a teamsters organizing drive in the plant. He said teamsters have an application before the Labor Relations Board for certification.

MLA Urges Grants

Grants in lieu of taxes to Saanich and Oak Bay for University of Victoria lands were proposed in the House Wednesday by Alan Macfarlane (L-Oak Bay).

He predicted that Oak Bay council will agree to the university request for the municipality to give up its rights to a strip of land that partially surrounds the Gordon Head campus.

The land was to have been used for apartments providing revenue to the municipality for a number of years before reverting to UVic.

"I have no doubt that most people favor giving up right to this land for the broader and better use of it by the new university," said Mr. Macfarlane.

Oak Bay has taken a lead in support of the university, he added, but the time has come for the provincial government to recognize local taxpayers deserve some financial relief.

This can best be done through grants in lieu of taxes which the municipalities already receive on provincial buildings and which Ottawa pays on federal installations.

Canada Ranks Third Among U.K. Friends

LONDON (Reuters) — The British public regards the United States as Britain's best friend.

Australians and Canadians rank second and third. The findings were determined by a Gallup poll of a representative cross section of Britons, who were asked:

"Which country do you regard as Britain's best friend?"

Traffic Inquest Put Over

An inquest Wednesday into the death of Saanich shipyard laborer and former amateur boxer Edward G. Robertson of 730 Lindsay was adjourned until Wednesday in the Saanich courtroom.

Mr. Robertson, 32, died at 11:22 p.m. Saturday in St. Joseph's Hospital, less than two hours after an accident on Interurban just north of Dumesque.

According to Dr. M. J. Lynch, pathologist at St. Joseph's, Mr. Robertson died of acute hemorrhage from multiple injuries in the pelvis.

Police say the father of six was fatally injured while attempting to hook a winch line to his ditched car.

Vancouver city analyst E. J. Fennell, who analyzed a blood sample taken from Mr. Robertson's body, told the jury the blood contained .37 per cent alcohol.

Anyone at such level would definitely be impaired by alcohol for driving a car, he said.

FUND STARTED

Mr. Fennell felt that judgment would be affected as well as reasoning power, care and attention, sight and hearing, and consideration of consequences.

Friends and neighbors of the uninsured laborer's family have started a fund to help relieve the financial burden caused by the accident.

Permanent Plates Put Before House

Proposals for permanent licence plates and government automobile insurance were brought up in the legislature Wednesday.

The permanent licence proposal, originally suggested by former superintendent of motor vehicles, George Lindsay, was supported by Dudley Little (SC-Skeena).

Mr. Lindsay had suggested gasoline taxes be boosted to compensate for the lost government revenue in licence-plate sales.

The idea would save B.C. millions of dollars which could be funnelled into highway maintenance, Mr. Little maintained.

It would also relieve the tax burden on the small-car owner since "the person driving a large gas-eater would pay more."

The Skeena member suggested the measure be referred to as "plates by the gallon."

Yale MLA W. L. Hartley suggested government car insur-

William Noury Dies, 81

William George Noury, 81, a former partner in the old Port Hope shipyard, died in Victoria Tuesday.

Mr. Noury worked as a shipwright at most of the local shipyards until his retirement about five years ago, his brother Walter said.

Born in St. Thomas, Ont., Mr. Noury came to Victoria at the age of 11. In his younger days he was an enthusiastic hunter.

FOUR NIECES

In addition to his brother Walter in Victoria, he is survived by four nieces, Mrs. Irene Mitchell, Victoria; Mrs. Rose Newman, Genoa Bay; Mrs. Gwen Bullock, New Westminster; and Mrs. Betty Smith, Maple Bay; two nephews, James of Sooke and Edward of Nanaimo.

Funeral services will be held at McCall Bros., Johnson and Vancouver, at 10:30 a.m. Friday with Ven. Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff officiating. Burial will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Truck Trouble Temporary

Provincial highways department truck took on too big a load with its winch Wednesday at site of new Pimbury bridge on Tzouhalem Road five miles southeast of Duncan—but upward tilt was soon arrested and no one was hurt. Piledriver is being put in place at right to start work on two-lane span replacing one-lane bridge connecting Duncan with Cowichan Bay.—(Klaus Muentner)

Children's World Village At Mill Bay This Year

A children's international summer village will operate from mid-July to mid-August starting this year at Brentwood College, Mill Bay.

R. W. Dudley, chairman of the Victoria International Co-operation Year Committee, announced Wednesday an island charter granted by Children's Village headquarters in Cincinnati is the third in Canada. The others are for Ottawa and Waterloo County, Ont.

He said four children will attend from this area and 40 more from 10 other nations. The Cincinnati headquarters will make the choices later.

Each child will be 11 years old, he said, old enough to be established in his own culture and therefore truly representative, and yet young enough so prejudices are not fixed.

An English-speaking counselor will come from each of the 10 nations and will bring her two- to four-year-old group into active participation in camp meetings and sports.

Each country will have a "day" in which it will be responsible for food, entertainment and games.

The children will stay in the permanent Brentwood College living quarters for students. They will have the use of the gymnasium, dining hall, playing fields and beach.

Mr. Dudley said the committee will be working until mid-July to arrange the village and added, "Between $7,500 and $8,000 will have to be raised."

He said Vancouver Island next year "can expect to send its own child delegates to one of the other villages in 50 countries."

Doc Nicoll Judgment Reserved

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. G. A. Heald, sitting in the B.C. Supreme Court, reserved judgment Tuesday in the tax assessment appeal of Nanaimo resident R. E. (Doc) Nicoll.

He is appealing 1964 assessments on his properties on Gabriola and Breakwater Islands near Nanaimo, which were upheld by the Nanaimo court of revision after the Supreme Court ordered a rehearing.

Mental Health Plea

'Make School Meaningful'

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO—"Any school system that demands the attendance of all children should also demand that the attendance is a meaningful experience and we (B.C.) are not at that stage yet."

Dr. Lawrence Peters, an assistant professor in the UBC special education department, was speaking Wednesday night to the annual meeting of the Canadian Mental Health Association's Nanaimo branch.

He said the most important thing in a school should be the quality of the interaction between teacher and pupils—"good teaching is good mental health."

NO ONE HIRED

Dr. Peters urged more trained educational or school psychologists. He said many counsellors have been added to school staffs recently but no one has been hired to improve the quality of the educational experience.

"It is important not to make a teacher into a psychiatrist but to give him skill in the learning process," he said. "Few courses teach the best way to teach disturbed children."

FEW CHANGES

In some cases, said Dr. Peters, "a few changes in the school are all that is needed to help children overcome their limitations."

B.C. authorities could draw on U.S. research in the field and should realize the importance of facilities outside the school for diagnosis.

Teachers should also realize each disturbed child needs a different teaching method. "In the area of his greatest deficit . . . in many cases educational therapy can be the partner of psychiatry."

OFFICERS NAMED

New officers of the Nanaimo branch are Dr. A. S. Houston, president; Mrs. J. R. H. Morton, first vice-president, and Dr. J. M. Thomas, second vice-president.

Executive directors are Mrs. N. T. Williams, Mrs. J. H. Dickson, Mrs. R. E. Fawdry, Mrs. C. W. Nicholls, Mrs. Evelyn Hepinstall, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moss, Ed Ross, Les Noon, Mrs. J. H. Wegerif, Mrs. James Loble, Mrs. C. D. Harrison, Miss E. A. Young, R. T. Guthrie and Mrs. I. P. Fredericksen.

Crown Zellerbach Canada

Elk Falls Expansion Helps Increase Profit

ADVANCE SUMMARY

Company president Robert Rogers made this statement in an advance summary of his firm's annual financial report, released today.

Mr. Rogers said net income in 1964 was $15,100,000, an increase of 11 per cent from the $13,700,000 in the year before.

He said this equals $2.02 a share compared to $1.82 a share in 1963. Total dollar sales last year were $142,000,000, or 13 per cent above the $125,000,000 reported the year before.

The Elk Falls expansion increasing the kraft pulp mill and bleach plant capacity, was reflected in a pulp and paper production total of 564,000 tons, a level 102,000 tons higher than in 1963.

LUMBER, PLYWOOD

Lumber and plywood production showed gains, with lumber output totalling 232,000,000 board feet and plywood 116,000,000 square feet.

Mr. Rogers said he expected the present level of business to continue in 1965.

18 Farm Families Taking Lessons

DUNCAN—Eighteen farm families, nine in the Saanich area and nine in the Cowichan district, are starting instruction under a farm business management program, southern Island district agriculturalist Kenneth Jameson announced Wednesday.

He said five workshops will be held in each area through the year in the program, which is sponsored by the provincial agriculture department. About 300 farmers are taking part in the studies elsewhere in B.C.

Mr. Jameson said the key to the program is a systematic initiation for the farmers into the keeping of farm records and accounts.

Every farmer participating in the one-year course will keep a farm account book. On completion, he will be given a written analysis of his book so he can adjust his operations.

Mr. Jameson said farmers can only improve their operations if they know exact annual expenditures and revenue. These point the way to adjustments and improvements.

All knowledge about individual farm business is kept in strict confidence by the department.

TV NOTES: A front page story today has given first details of TV and radio coverage of the Churchill funeral. More are expected noon, and all will be published here both Friday and Saturday.

How series find sponsors: The Ford Motor Co. will sponsor the FBI series on ABC next season because John Hughes, president of Ford's international division, is a former FBI agent... the FBI series will be produced by Quinn Martin, once under heavy FBI criticism for violence on his earlier series, The Untouchables.

For the first time in history, all daytime shows on the three U.S. networks have been sold out to sponsors... Valentine's Day and Joe Bishop will be cancelled after this season... CBS has announced plans for its own college football bowl game, the Santa Claus bowl.

Trans World Airlines, which already shows movies on flights, will present double features on overseas and other long journeys... The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has become the first U.S. railway to show movies to travellers... Bob Hope's Christmas show won more than half the audience, trouncing even Gomer Pyle and the Addams.

BIG GEORGE! by Virgil Partech

Gentle, Firm 'No'

Soft Answers Expected To Turn Wrath

By STEWART MACLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—Few people can say "no" with more gentle warmth than Raymond Labarge. And in his new job as deputy minister of national revenue he will probably say it a good many times.

As administrative head of the custom and excise tax division, the new deputy will face thousands of requests from taxpayers who seek ways to avoid or lighten the burden of their taxes. Mr. Labarge's combination of charm and firmness will serve him well.

As if the mammoth task of overseeing collection of nearly $2,500,000,000 a year in taxes were not enough, the 31-year-old Mr. Labarge faces the added difficulty of supervising one of the most popular and able deputy ministers in the civil service. Before his retirement David Sim was known as "Mr. Civil Service" and was almost an institution.

"Yes, I think it's going to be very difficult to succeed him," Mr. Labarge said quietly as he moved into the expansive deputy minister's office for the first day on the job. "He was extremely popular and capable."

Then, after a moment's thought, he added: "But you can't change your nature. You are you, and you can only do the best you are capable of. I'll do the best I can, and I don't pretend in the least to be another David Sim."

THINK Alike

While the two men differ in appearance and mannerism, some officials of the department say that if each were given an identical situation they would probably arrive at the same conclusion in the same length of time.

David Sim would operate with ebullient Scottish humor; Raymond Labarge with quiet Gallic charm.

A similarity they share is that they started their careers as private secretaries to Liberal cabinet ministers and were given added responsibilities by subsequent Conservative administrations. Mr. Sim began as private secretary to the late William Euler, revenue minister in 1927. Mr. Labarge began as private secretary to the late James J. McCann, revenue minister in 1945.

In 1949 Mr. Labarge was appointed administrative officer of the customs and excise division, and four years later was made general executive assistant in the department. He became assistant deputy minister in 1957, a position he held until an 18-month period in 1962-63 when he was loaned to the Privy Council as assistant secretary to the cabinet.

SERVED IN NAVY
Mr. Labarge, a native of Ottawa, was awarded the MBE for his services in the navy during the Second World War. He left the navy in 1945 as a lieutenant-commander. Two of his brothers were killed in the RCN.

Fluently bilingual, he came to the department armed with a broad education in arts, economics, history and jurisprudence, gained from the University of Ottawa, McMaster University and Oxford.

He returned from Oxford with a British accent "but my brother soon knocked that out of me." There he also met his wife, who has an international reputation as a historian. Under the name of Margaret Wade Labarge, she has written several books on medieval history. She often reviews books on a radio program. They have two sons and two daughters.

When Mr. Labarge speaks about his family his eyes tend to twinkle and his hand (fingers cracked into broad grins. He'll occasionally run his hand over his steel-grey hair.

"I guess we're a pretty close bunch," he says. "All my recreation involves family activities. I find we come closer together by working on projects, whether it be cooking or building. It's a do-it-yourself household. We play golf, tennis, swimming and canoeing together and we've also covered a fair chunk of Europe together."

Alaska

Caribou Experiencing Population Explosion

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Despite marauding wolves and hunters' guns, a population explosion in the Nelchina herd of caribou has the Alaska fish and game department wondering what to do about the over-supply of American reindeer.

The herd, roaming the Nelchina River area northeast of Anchorage, numbered only about 5,000 in the early 1940s. Now, it is estimated at 80,000 caribou.

Worried that the massive-antlered beasts might grow beyond the food capacity of the range, the game department banned the shooting of the wolves which live off the caribou.

Jim Brooks, director of the division of game, said the wolf population has stabilized but the caribou still increase.

Shooting seasons have been liberalized and bag limits increased until a hunter can take home four caribou in most areas. Brooks estimated 8,000 animals would be taken from the Nelchina herd before the season closes March 31.

But hunters can't help a lot. The 228,000 Alaskans are far outnumbered by the caribou.

Cuban Jails Await Bad Drivers

HAVANA (Reuters)—Cuban authorities, alarmed at the rising rate of traffic accidents, are imposing penalties of up to 10 years' imprisonment on drivers responsible for road deaths and injuries.

A total of 226 persons died and 9,386 were injured in the first half of 1964, according to official statistics.

Traffic police throughout the country have been mobilized to halt the upward curve.

Meeting Saturday

Campaign Costs Target of Probe

OTTAWA (UPI)—The five-man advisory committee studying the controlling of federal election campaign expenses will hold its first meeting Saturday headed by a new committee chairman.

Alphonse Barbeau, a Montreal lawyer, has been appointed to head the committee following the resignation of Francois Norbert of Three Rivers, Que., for health reasons. State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne announced Wednesday.

LAW SPECIALIST

Barbeau, 38, is especially well suited to the work of the commission, a specialist in administrative and constitutional law, and an advisor to Quebec Premier Lesage in the preparation of Quebec's legislation, now in effect, that introduced reforms into provincial election campaign spending.

A spokesman for Lamontagne said the committee would be "very anxious to get down to work quickly because of the unavoidable delay in launching the study" commissioned by the government last October. He said Saturday's meeting would be basically one of organization.

Norbert, named first chairman when the committee was established, recently wrote to Lamontagne to say that he did not want to prejudice the work of the committee through delay, and he regretfully submitted his resignation because of the illness, diagnosed as cancer, that had prevented him from filling the chairman's responsibilities.

The committee, that includes Gordon Dryden, a Toronto lawyer and prominent Liberal election fund raiser; Arthur Smith, former Conservative MP; Prof. Norman Ward, Saskatchewan political science professor, and M. J. Coldwell, former CCF national leader, has been given sweeping powers to report on its study.

WIDE TERMS

Lamontagne, in announcing the establishment of the committee, said he hoped their wide terms of reference would be broadly interpreted. No time limit has been placed on their investigations, although the state secretary, at the time of the formation of the committee, expressed the hope that parliament could meet the reforms prior to the next general election.

At the present time, candidates for election to the Commons are required to submit detailed receipts and expenditures outlining their revenues and expenses. This requirement has been abused in the past, however, and many such returns have never been filed with the chief electoral officer.

Blonde Indignant

Did Prison Life Include Girls?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Expensive call girls, Scotch on the rocks, sirloin steaks, television sets, plush interspersed mattresses—were these worldly pleasures available to inmates of a New Jersey jail?

"Absolutely false!" said Henry McFarland, 70, warden of the Hudson County, N.J., jail.

"I never saw the place," said an indignant blue-eyed blonde, Marilyn Prosser, 25, an alleged $50-a-night prostitute.

STOLEN GOODS

"I took the fifth amendment," said convicted basketball player Israel Schwartzberg, who is suspected of having transported Miss Prosser from Manhattan to the county jail cell in Jersey City of loan shark Harold (Kayo) Konigsberg, then doing time for possession of stolen goods.

A federal grand jury is looking into the U.S. government's charges that Miss Prosser made the trip in violation of the Mann Act which makes it a crime to transport a woman across state lines for immoral purposes.

The grand jury Tuesday heard the testimony of Warden McFarland and Schwartzberg. Miss Prosser arrived too late and was told to return again Monday.

There have been reports that Hudson County prisoners could buy almost anything, including liquor was going for $10 a bottle and steaks for $7.50. Interspersed mattresses and television sets also were said to be available for a price.

McFarland told newsmen Tuesday the reports were "absolutely false." He said he appeared voluntarily and would testify again if called.

"I'm available," he said. "I'm not concerned at all."

COMING OF AGE With Sally Hamilton

"Guess where I go once a week? Me, a man of 70! To the YWCA—that's where!"

"One day, as I was minding my business and having a 'keep fit' swim at our local YMCA pool, another fellow in the pool—a man I had known years earlier—suddenly said, 'You're the guy!'"

"Who, me?"

"The YWCA are raising funds for a new building and they need an experienced accountant on their team. You're it!"

"I didn't agree right off, but now here I am working at it—the only man with a bunch of women on this special committee. And they really need me! It's fun being important once again."

A letter like that makes you think, doesn't it? How much good talent is going to waste!

In one Canadian home for aging people, a whole program got going, almost by accident. One resident was an older woman who cried almost all the time. Then someone donated a new organ to the home and she spotted it. Timidly she asked, "May I play?"

"Yes, indeed!"

And this once-expert organist dried her tears as she took over. She plays every day now for singings and the others love it, just as much as she loves playing. "What if they do sing off-key at times?" says the matron.

Out of that group a good quartet has been put together. I leave it to you to imagine how proud they are!

So many oldsters have tremendous talents and skills that could be put to use, but they need to operate in a group. If you want more fun, you must be willing to get out and try.

A war veteran joined the "over 60" club in his church. There were card games and other entertainment. But he wasn't that fond of cards and,

Bearers: Premiers, Marshals

LONDON (Reuters) — The names of the 12 pallbearers for the funeral Saturday of Sir Winston Churchill were announced Wednesday night by the Duke of Norfolk as follows:

Earl Mountbatten of Burma, chief of the defence staff and Second World War supreme commander in Southeast Asia.

RAF Marshal Lord Portal of Hungerford, wartime chief of the air staff.

Sir Robert Menzies, prime minister of Australia.

Harold Macmillan, former Conservative prime minister of Britain.

Lord Ismay, chief of staff to the defence ministry during the war and secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization from 1952 to 1957.

Lord Normanbrook, former secretary to the British cabinet.

Field Marshal Sir Gerald Templer, former chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Earl Attlee, deputy prime minister in Churchill's wartime coalition government and later Labor prime minister and one of Churchill's chief parliamentary antagonists.

Meal Fraud Case

MOUNTIE TRIO FACES COURT

Three RCMP constables and a cafe operator have been accused of fraud in the handling of meal accounts of prisoners at the Prince Rupert jail.

Assistant Commissioner D. O. Forrest, commanding officer of the RCMP in B.C., announced the charges Wednesday.

He said the men were charged by summons in the last two days, after a four-month police investigation into the supplying of meals to prisoners in the Prince Rupert jail.

Charged are Const. W. L. Giesbrecht, 27; Const. A. G. Kemp, 25; Const. W. S. Austin, 26, and cafe operator Kut Sing Low of Prince Rupert.

The case is scheduled to open Feb. 11, 1965.

in Prince Rupert magistrate's court Feb. 10.

Ernest A. Alexander of Vancouver has been named as special prosecutor by the attorney-general's department.

The charges accuse Giesbrecht of defrauding the province of money between Jan. 1, 1962, and March 31, 1963. The charge against Kemp covers a period between April 1, 1963, and July 31, 1964, and the period covered in Austin's charge is from August 21, 1963, to Sept. 11, 1964.

Kut Sing Low was taken off normal duty this week following the laying of charges.

Denis

Cafe Owner Accused

Kut is accused of defrauding the province between Jan. 1, 1962, and July 31, 1964.

The RCMP announcement said indications of possible irregularities were spotted by other members of the Prince Rupert detachment more than four months ago. A report was sent immediately to Victoria and an investigation was launched.

The force investigated reports that some members of the 21-man detachment had obtained free meals and groceries from a restaurant that provided meals for prisoners.

The restaurant was said to have covered the cost by increasing the price of prisoners' meals.

found wounded in his home at Grand Forks last August.

Const. Kemp had been transferred to the Burnaby detachment from Prince Rupert prior to the investigation, and Austin is in Prince Rupert.

Kemp and Austin were taken off normal duty this week following the laying of charges.

Pale, Articulate

Denis Denies Making Bribe Offer

MONTREAL (CP)—Raymond Denis, pale and drawn but spiritedly articulate, denied in the witness box Wednesday that he ever offered a bribe to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne.

The accusation was "a bomb, an explosion, a terrible surprise," he declared before the Dorion inquiry.

It was the first public statement by the 32-year-old former executive assistant to Immigration

Minister Tremblay on the case which has rocked the country since it broke in the Commons Nov. 23.

Mr. Lamontagne testified Dec. 15 when the inquiry opened in Ottawa Denis offered him $20,000 July 14 to agree to bail for Lucien Rivard, 49, wanted in the U.S. on charges of being a key conspirator in an international, Mafia-controlled narcotics smuggling ring.

OFFER CLAIMED
Mr. Lamontagne was — and still is — acting for the U.S. government in the extradition case against Rivard, scheduled to be decided today by Mr. Justice Francois Caron in Court of Queen's Bench here.

Andre Desjardins quoted from an RCMP report of an Aug. 19 interview with Denis that Denis had told police all he knew about the Rivard case was what he had read in the newspapers while on holidays.

STATE OF SHOCK
Denis said he couldn't remember making such a statement to the RCMP.

"I was in a state of shock," he said, when Inspector J. P. Drapeau had told him of Mr. Lamontagne's charge.

Denis said he couldn't have made such a statement because he hadn't had any holidays apart from weekends.

Earlier, he said he had discussed the Rivard case July 14 in Ottawa with Mr. Lamontagne and Liberal organizer Guy Masson had spoken to him of the affair June 22.

WENT TO OTTAWA
The witness, a Montreal lawyer who went to Ottawa in June, 1963, as special assistant to then Justice Minister Chevrier, said Mr. Lamontagne told him July 14 that he (Lamontagne) had been offered $3,000 and that "it was terrible that anyone could think a lawyer could sell himself in that way."

Lying-in-State

Thousands Pay Homage

LONDON (CP)—An endless queue of mourners passed the body of Sir Winston Churchill in homage Wednesday on the first day of his lying-in-state at Westminster Hall.

With tears and prayers, the mourners streamed five to seven abreast into the Hall of Kings, moving with whispering footsteps across the carpeted stone floors of the ancient edifice.

FLAG-DRAPED COFFIN

Police estimated the line was edging along at the rate of more than 4,200 mourners an hour past the flag-draped coffin resting on a high velvet-covered catafalque, the tall gilded cross and the six candles, burning with an icy light.

The Lord Chamberlain's office reported 57,000 persons had paid their respects to the fallen statesman by 7 p.m., fewer than a previous police estimate.

Observers calculated that at this rate the total number by midnight Friday night will match the 306,000 who rendered final homage to King George VI in 1952.

The mood varied in the queue, which was about one mile long at the time of the total estimate. Those near the tail chatted good-naturedly, cracked jokes and drank tea in the chill night air. Toward the end of the queue and within the hall the mood became distinctly solemn.

At times the queue—while police restricted to three or four abreast outside the hall—stretched two miles, curling through Victoria Tower Gardens, across Lambeth Bridge which spans the Thames and along the South Embankment of the river.

WOMEN IN TEARS

Mourners on one side of the river gazed at those on the other, many of them—men as well as women—brushing away tears as they shuffled slowly along. Sometimes the farewell march to the catafalque and past the coffin took two hours.

The mourners passed in two streams on either side of the coffin, becoming motionless in a frieze-like portrait each 20 minutes when the five officers of the watch were changed.

CLIMAX SATURDAY

This was the first day of the great public ritual which reaches its climax Saturday when Sir Winston is borne to St. Paul's Cathedral for a state funeral that will be attended by presidents, prime ministers and kings.

Sumner Russell, 56-year-old taxi driver, paused after emerging from the 900-year-old Hall of Kings to muse about the devotion Sir Winston inspired.

"The strange thing is that in pre-war days the working class would not have lamented the loss of Churchill," he said.

BULLDOG LOOK

"But during the war they took to Winnie—the V-sign, the big cigar, the bulldog look, all that. Churchill was an aristocrat by blood, you know, despite all the talk about him being the great commoner. But the bond between him and the working class is very strong indeed."

WILSON LED QUEUE

Prime Minister Wilson and his wife led the queue when the procession began Wednesday morning, the first two hours reserved for parliamentarians, the diplomatic corps and various dignitaries. Canada's high commissioner, Lionel Chevrier, his wife and daughter were among this group.

There were a few surprising discoveries when ordinary folk, some of whom had waited in the cold since midnight Tuesday night, began the slow march.

BOMB BANNER

The first was Nick Hutchings, 17-year-old member of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament—wearing his CND badge—who declared:

"I have come here out of respect for this great man. I have read his books and heard lots about him. I think he is the greatest man the world has ever known."

"It's true I am a member of the CND, but for Churchill, I wave aside this badge."

Johnson Not Going

Pearsons Leave

MONTREAL (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson, accompanied by his wife, left Dorval Airport Wednesday for London to attend the Churchill funeral.

Soviet Marshal Will Attend

MOSCOW (UPI)—The British Embassy announced that Soviet army Marshal Ivan Konev and Deputy Premier Konstantin Rudnev will represent the Soviet Union at Sir Winston Churchill's funeral in London. Konev's troops drove invading Nazi armies from Moscow to Berlin.

Television To Carry Last Rites

The Churchill funeral will be shown live from England via Telstar satellite Saturday morning by at least three television channels seen in Victoria.

CBUT and CHEK officials announced Wednesday the funeral will be shown during a program beginning at 5 a.m. on Channels 2 and 6. Films will be shown on the same channels at 9:45 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. Channel 5 will show the funeral at 6:30 a.m. Saturday while radio stations CFAX (1070) and CBU (680) will carry live broadcasts beginning at 1 a.m. CFAX will carry a repeat at 7:05 p.m.

Staggered Strikes Hit Paris

PARIS (Reuters)—Some 2,500,000 French state employees began 48 hours of staggered strikes Wednesday in a bid to end the government's wage freeze.

Thousands of Parisians walked to work, rode in army trucks, or contributed to big traffic jams by using their own cars.

RAIL TIEUP

A 24-hour strike by 350,000 railway workers was scheduled to end at midnight.

Even with rail workers back on the job, however, service on the many electrified lines was not expected to be resumed because 220,000 electricity and gas workers walked off at 9 p.m. local time.

GREATER BLOW

The gas and electricity strike was expected to be a greater blow to the nation's economic life than the transport walkout.

Because of it, most firms have given their employees today off.

Also on strike were 200,000 postal workers, 200,000 teachers, and close to 1,000,000 garbage collectors, bus drivers, railway workers and civil servants.

Harvard Professor Premier

Buddhists Rejoice

SAIGON (UPI)—Former Harvard economics professor Nguyen Xuan Oanh was named acting prime minister of South Vietnam today by its military strongman, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

Formation of the new temporary government came after thousands of jubilant Buddhists rioted in public to celebrate the overthrow by the Vietnamese armed forces of the American-backed government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor had shown where his sympathies lay by paying a call on the deposed premier after the bloodless coup that returned Khanh to power.

Radio Peking claimed Wednesday the coup in Saigon was a "victory for the people of Vietnam." The Peking broadcast said: "No matter how hard the U.S. tries to maintain a relatively stable figurehead regime, there is no way out."

highly regarded economist and financier.

Oanh, whose friends call him Jack Owen, was educated in Japan and the United States. He taught economics at Harvard until the fall of Ngo Dinh Diem's regime on Nov. 1, 1963.

He returned soon after Diem's assassination and joined the government as minister of economics.

Cautious Comment American Reaction

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department says continued political instability in South Vietnam "inevitably has a bearing on prosecution of the war."

But the comment, made by spokesman Robert J. McCloskey, was about as far as the United States would go, on the record, in assessing the coup that brought Gen. Khanh back into power.

Gagnon Death Certificate

Action 'Not Tolerated'

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons Wednesday questioned a statement about death certificates which was made before the Dorion inquiry.

Dr. Landriault, Gagnon's personal physician, conceded that this practice was not usual. But he said it is "tolerated" by the college.

The college spokesman said in a Wednesday interview: "It is completely false to think that the college tolerates the signing of death certificates in this manner."

He said toleration would be possible under special circumstances.

"But these circumstances are so few that one could ignore them."

The college spokesman said "it may well happen that the governors will decide to do something" about Dr. Landriault's statement.

Licence Proposal

Single Fee
'Possible'

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — The unexpected proposal by Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan for a single trades licence system for four neighboring communities "could be worked," Mayor Jack Dobson said Wednesday.

He said the proposal, made by Reeve Morton Tuesday night, "came like a bolt from the blue but certainly it would be worth-while to investigate it."

Reeve Morton suggested the single system for the city of Duncan, the municipality of North Cowichan, the town of Ladysmith and the village of Lake Cowichan.

SPRING SURPRISE

He had arranged a meeting of councillors from the four communities to hear officials discuss the three-university fund drive on Vancouver Island and said he wanted to take advantage of the gathering to spring his surprise.

The reeve said the four clerks of the communities could look into the proposal and, if they feel it had merit, he "would be happy" to set up a meeting for further discussion.

'GOOD THING'

Mayor Dobson, in expressing tentative approval, said Duncan had in the past honored trades licences of people who lived in North Cowichan but close to the city boundaries.

Ladysmith's Mayor Kathleen Grouhel said the idea "would be a good thing from the council's point of view" but declined further comment "at this time."

Village council chairman Mildred Child of Lake Cowichan reserved comment until the council "gets together."

Reeve Morton said a trading area would "simplify matters considerably" and gave an example.

ONE PLUS THREE

He said a salesman who lived in one of the four communities and wanted to do business in the other three had to take out a trades licence for the community in which he lived plus three licences and three bonds for each of the others.

The reeve said he felt the present situation, with every community having a separate licence and bond requirement, was "ridiculous," especially because the areas were so close together.

All parties indicated the matter would come up at the next meeting of their councils.

March
Monday

DUNCAN — A total of 220 mothers will take part in this year's Mothers' March in this area next Monday, officials of the sponsoring Duncan Kinamen Club said Wednesday.

The mothers will march in the area from Shawigan Lake to Crofton and will be out from 6 to 8 p.m. in the larger communities and during the afternoon in outlying areas.

The objective of the mothers is $4,000 for the Polioymyelitis Rehabilitation Foundation in Vancouver.

Cowichan Lake

Constable or Steno?

LAKE COWICHAN — The Cowichan Lake and District Chamber of Commerce has joined the Cowichan Lake PTA in its campaign for a third RCMP constable in the district.

A letter from the PTA considered by the annual Chamber meeting Tuesday night pointed out the present two-man detachment here is responsible for a population of 7,500 in nine communities.

The PTA suggested matters might be speeded up if the Chamber was to write directly to Attorney-General Bonner.

Chamber member Col. J. H. Byrd recommended that the Chamber suggest an alternative to the PTA before the letter is sent to the attorney-general.

He said that, if the district could not get another constable, the employment of a stenographer in the police station would relieve the two-man detachment of some of its paper work.

The Chamber eventually decided to inform the PTA of its support and pass on the stenographer suggestion.

HIGHWAY REQUEST

Another resolution renewed the Chamber's request to the provincial highways department for the proposed $1,000,000 highway into the area.

Five new directors were elected. Alan Anderson, Ernest Clode, Kenneth Frost and Thomas Rogers were chosen for three-year terms and Bing Wise was elected for a one-year term.

The Chamber council includes the new directors, president E. T. M. McBride and other directors Clarence Whittingham, Ernest Ardley, Elmer Tenney, Cy Dume, Percy Cooper and Nels Olsen.

OFFICERS TUESDAY

The council will meet next Tuesday to elect its slate of officers for 1965 and the annual installation banquet will be held in the Mesachie Lake hall Feb. 25.

Mr. McBride presented an award to the Chamber which he recently accepted from the Kiwanis club of Cowichan Lake. The achievement award was given to the Chamber for citizenship service in this district.

Crimes Linked?

COURTENAY — Three break-ins overnight Tuesday appeared to be the work of the same people, RCMP said Wednesday.

They said "very little" seemed to be missing from Rutterworth's Moving and Storage on Kye Bay Road near RCAF Station Comox. Buckfield's in Courtenay, and a home in the 588-block 11th Street in Courtenay.

Macfarlane Scores Minister's Action

Campbell River Vote
'Illegal Expediency'By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell was charged in the House Wednesday with "riding roughshod" over the people of the Campbell River area in creating a new district municipality last month.

Alan Macfarlane (L-Oak Bay) said the vote held in Campbell River village and four surrounding areas last Dec. 12 was of the minister's own creation and was not authorized by the Municipal Act.

The legislation should put a halt to a second vote, which the minister proposes to hold Feb. 6 in North Campbell River and Quinsam, because it was a further violation of the people's rights, said Mr. Macfarlane.

"I strongly protest the action of this government in acting outside the law," the Liberal member said, "in ignoring the rights of people under the laws as they exist, and in the placing of expediency over and above the law and the people's rights."

Mr. Macfarlane said the minister's objectives in seeking to create the new district municipality might have been good, but the law was not in the minister's hands.

'Rights Ignored'

"The law has been ignored," said Mr. Macfarlane. "The rights of the people have been ignored, all in the name of expediency."

He said the minister thought creation of a district municipality in the Campbell River area would be a good thing, and came to the conclusion this would also be a popular thing with certain residents of the area.

Despite the fact Mr. Campbell had no authority to do so, in the Municipal Act, a vote on the question of amalgamation was held Dec. 12, and within five days he had "illegally" incorporated the new municipality by letters patent.

The new municipality consisted of the village of Campbell River and part of the Willow Point water district. Oyster River was excluded, but Mr. Campbell didn't give up hope for the ultimate inclusion of North Campbell River and Quinsam.

Validation Bid Next?

So a second vote was scheduled for early next month to give the residents of the latter two districts another chance to express their views.

Mr. Macfarlane predicted the minister would shortly come before the legislature "in the name of expediency" to ask for validating legislation to make legal what was illegal at the time it was done.

"Expediency is no excuse for acting outside the law," said Mr. Macfarlane. "If it were then no one in our society would know, from day to day, what rights they had or what lay in store for them."

The Liberal member warned the House that the Campbell River affair was "only the first step" and, if the lack of respect for the law was condoned, other violations of people's rights would follow.

Duncan Men Jailed

Third Attempt Did It

DUNCAN — Four Duncan men were sentenced in magistrate's court Wednesday to two months each at Oakalla prison farm after they pleaded guilty to a joint charge of uttering a forged document — a single worthless cheque.

The four were Louis Jack, Eugene W. Mathe, George Neufeld and James Johnson.

Police said all four men were present when three cheques were made out at separate times during one recent day in the local post office.

TURNED AWAY

They tried to cash the first cheque at a local business establishment but were turned away.

They went back to the post office to write the second cheque and tried a second time but again were turned away.

They went back to the post office again and wrote out the third cheque, for less than $50.

When they went to cash it at a third store, the manager phoned police.

The police added the first cheque was torn up during the second trip to the post office and the second cheque met a similar fate during the third trip to the postal centre.

In the same court, 17-year-old David William Frank Lamb of Duncan was sentenced to nine months definite and six months indefinite at the Oakalla young offenders' unit.

He was raised into adult court recently and pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a private home to commit an indictable offence. The court recommended he be sent to the correctional institute at Burnaby.

Charles Gibb of Duncan, who pleaded not guilty to charges of common assault and assault by trespassing, was convicted on both charges and fined $50 on each.

Court was told the charges arose from two separate incidents.

The first involved Bing Ken Jung, the manager of a local cafe, whom Gibb grabbed around the throat Nov. 28.

The second charge was laid after Gibb refused a police request to leave a private home Nov. 11.

Zoning Change Asked

Business Tied
By Red Tape

NANAIMO — An appeal to remove red tape from a key part of provincial regional zoning methods was made to Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell in Victoria Wednesday by a group of Nanaimo businessmen.

Realtor Dr. Mladen Zorkin, lawyer E. D. Strongtharm, a representative of Mayo Lumber Co. and two officials of the Chamber of Commerce asked for a revision of the system to remove red tape which delays businessmen who wish to establish in an area.

OUT OF WAY

Dr. Zorkin said here late Wednesday the minister "is going out of his way to find the formula which will settle this whole zoning business."

"I have to give him credit for trying to do something about it," he said.

ACT IN ADVANCE

The Chamber representatives asked that enough parts of an area be zoned in advance for industry and commerce so businessmen would not decide to leave the area because of costly delays.

Dr. Zorkin said this would be preferable to spot zoning, which he called "wrong, futile and not solving the problem."

LONG WAIT

A public meeting on regional zoning may be held in Nanaimo following this session of the legislature to discuss any zoning problem this area has.

Dr. Zorkin, agent for Mayo Lumber, has been trying to have a parcel of Chas. River property rezoned from residential to commercial to allow establishment of a lumber supermarket.

Six months have elapsed since the request was first submitted, but so far the regional planning board has not handed in a decision.

Fire Victims

Family Gets Help

NANAIMO — A Wellington family of six whose home and belongings were destroyed by fire early Tuesday is being helped by the local Red Cross branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Parker and their four children fled their burning home following a furnace explosion about 2 a.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Parker, a government employee, has not been working since April because of a severe stomach ailment. They have two girls, aged 14 and 16, and two boys, 10 and 11.

FURNITURE NEEDED

James Buckle, chairman of the local Red Cross disaster section, says the family will pick up enough emergency clothing at Eaton's today to tide them over and enough bedding for three double beds is being shipped from Vancouver.

However, the family needs a small oil stove, bedsteads, mattresses, kitchen utensils, china and chests of drawers. The family is staying at the Castaway Motel and will be moving into a house on Discovery Avenue next week.

Needed for Tourists

Lake Cowichan
Bids for Park

LAKE COWICHAN — A bid for a class A provincial park in the Cowichan Lake district will be made in March by the Cowichan Lake and District Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber members decided at their annual meeting Tuesday night to submit a resolution on the park to the annual conference in March of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

EARLY ACTION

The resolution will ask the ACCVI to urge the government to grant the necessary money for the park, and to urge the recreation and conservation department to proceed with development of the park as soon as possible.

The Chamber members gave what they called five "excellent" reasons for the park.

OLD PROMISE

First and foremost is a promise by the recreation department to a local delegation 4½ years ago that the Cowichan Lake area had top priority for establishment of a class A park and that action would be taken within one year.

The other reasons:

● The department has set aside three locations in the Cowichan Lake district as possible park sites.

● The closest freshwater class A park to Victoria is located at Cameron Lake.

● The industrial aspect of the district precludes the private development of a suitable park.

● The district has swimming, fishing, water sports, hiking and similar amenities but does not possess adequate camping facilities to handle an ever-growing influx of tourists.

The recreation department recently decided to help the district Kiwanis club which planned a 172-acre park on the south shore of the lake.

The department indicated it had a larger park in mind and is said to be looking at a 600-acre site in the Cottonwood Creek delta northwest of Youbou.

Two Comox Valley officials were appointed Wednesday by the provincial cabinet as justices of the peace. They are William Moore, city clerk-administrator in Courtenay since his resignation last fall as mayor, and S. E. Mounce, village clerk in Cumberland.

PORT ALBERNI — The councils of the Twin Cities and the Alberni Valley Ministerial Association will hold an interdenominational service in memory of Sir Winston Churchill in First United Church at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Speakers will include Rev. Roy Rodgers and Mayors Fred Bishop and Les Hammer. It is expected members of the tri-services and cadet units will attend.

CHENAINUS — The Chemainus branch of the Royal Canadian Legion will hold a memorial service for Sir Winston Churchill at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Legion auditorium. Rev. J. G. Matthews, the branch padre, will conduct the public service.

NANAIMO — Donald G. Neil, 2905 Fairbanks Avenue, who pleaded not guilty in magistrate's court Wednesday to a charge of impaired driving, was convicted by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts. Neil was fined $200 and his driver's licence was suspended until Feb. 20.

NANAIMO — Two 16-year-old youths escaped from the Brannan Lake boys' industrial school about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and were still at large 24 hours later. The two were wearing institutional clothing at the time of their escape.

Roll Call of War Chiefs

Bearers: Premiers, Marshals

LONDON (Reuters) — The names of the 12 pallbearers for the funeral Saturday of Sir Winston Churchill were announced Wednesday night by the Duke of Norfolk as follows:

Earl Mountbatten of Burma, chief of the defence staff and Second World War supreme commander in Southeast Asia.

RAF Marshal Lord Portal of Hungerford, wartime chief of the air staff.

Sir Robert Menzies, prime minister of Australia, former Conservative prime minister of Britain.

The Earl of Avon, who as Sir Anthony Eden succeeded Churchill as prime minister on his retirement.

Lord Ismay, chief of staff to the defence ministry during the war and secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization from 1952 to 1957.

Lord Normanbrook, former secretary to the British cabinet.

Field Marshal Viscount Slim, former governor-general of Australia and commander of the 14th Army which defeated the Japanese in Burma.

Field Marshal Sir Gerald Templer, former chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Earl Attlee, deputy prime minister in Churchill's wartime coalition government and later Labor prime minister and one of Churchill's chief parliamentary antagonists.

Lying-in-State

Thousands Pay Homage

LONDON (CP)—An endless queue of mourners passed the body of Sir Winston Churchill in homage Wednesday on the first day of his lying-in-state at Westminster Hall.

With tears and prayers, the mourners streamed five- to seven abreast into the Hall of Kings, moving with whispering footsteps across the carpeted stone floors of the ancient edifice.

FLAG-DRAPED COFFIN

Police estimated the line was edging along at the rate of more than 4,300 mourners an hour past the flag-draped coffin resting on a high velvet-covered catafalque, the tall gilded cross and the six candles, burning with an icy light.

The Lord Chamberlain's office reported 57,000 persons had paid their respects to the fallen statesman by 7 p.m., fewer than a previous police estimate.

Observers calculated that at this rate the total number by midnight Friday night will match the 306,000 who rendered final homage to King George VI in 1952.

The mood varied in the queue, which was about one mile long at the time of the total estimate. Those near the tail chatted good-humoredly, cracked jokes and drank tea in the chill night air. Toward the end of the queue and within the hall the mood became distinctly solemn.

At times the queue—which police restricted to three abreast outside the hall—stretched two miles, curling through Victoria Tower Gardens, across Lambeth Bridge which spans the Thames and along the South Embankment of the river.

WOMEN IN TEARS

Mourners on one side of the river gazed at those on the other, many of them—men as well as women—brushing away tears as they shuffled slowly along. Sometimes the farewell march to the catafalque and past the coffin took two hours.

The mourners passed in two streams on either side of the coffin, becoming motionless in a frieze-like portrait each 20 minutes when the five officers of the watch were changed.

CLIMAX SATURDAY

This was the first day of the great public ritual which reaches its climax Saturday when Sir Winston is borne to St. Paul's Cathedral for a state funeral that will be attended by presidents, prime ministers and kings.

Summer Russell, 50-year-old taxi driver, paused after emerging from the 900-year-old Hall of Kings to muse about the devotion Sir Winston inspired.

"The strange thing is that in pre-war days the working class would not have lamented the loss of Churchill," he said.

BULLDOG LOOK

"But during the war they took to Winston—the V-sign, the big cigar, the bulldog look, all that." "Churchill was an aristocrat by blood, you know, despite all the talk about him being the greatest commoner. But the bond between him and the working class is very strong indeed."

WILSON LED QUEUE

Prime Minister Wilson and his wife led the queue when the procession began Wednesday morning, the first two hours reserved for parliamentarians, the diplomatic corps and various dignitaries. Canada's high commissioner, Lionel Chevrier, his wife and daughter were among this group.

There were a few surprising discoveries when ordinary folk, some of whom had waited in the cold since midnight Tuesday night, began the slow march.

BOMB BANNER

The first was Nick Hutchings, 17-year-old member of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament—wearing his CND badge—who declared: "I have come here out of respect for this great man. I have read his books and heard lots about him. I think he is the greatest man the world has ever known."

"It's true I am a member of the CND, but for Churchill, I wave aside this badge."

Staggered Strikes Hit Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — Some 2,500,000 French state employees began 48 hours of staggered strikes Wednesday in a bid to end the government's wage freeze.

Thousands of Parisians walked to work, rode in army trucks, or contributed to big traffic jams by using their own cars.

RAIL TIEUP

A 24-hour strike by 350,000 railway workers was scheduled to end at midnight. Even with rail workers back on the job, however, service on the many electrified lines was not expected to be resumed because 220,000 electricity and gas workers walked off at 9 p.m. local time.

GREATER BLOW

The gas and electricity strike was expected to be a greater blow to the nation's economic life than the transport walkout. Because of it, most firms have given their employees today off.

Also on strike were 200,000 postal workers, 300,000 teachers, and close to 1,000,000 garbage collectors, bus drivers, subway workers and civil servants.

Harvard Professor Premier

Buddhists Rejoice

SAIGON (UPI)—Former Harvard economics professor Nguyen Xuan Oanh was named acting prime minister of South Vietnam today by its military strongman, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

Formation of the new temporary government came after thousands of jubilant Buddhists massed in public to celebrate the overthrow by the Vietnamese armed forces of the American-backed government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor had shown where his sympathies lay by paying a call on the deposed premier after the bloodless coup that returned Khanh to power.

Radio Peking claimed Wednesday the coup in Saigon was a "victory for the people of Viet Nam." The Peking broadcast said: "No matter how hard the U.S. tries to maintain a relatively stable figurehead regime, there is no way out."

Oanh, 43, had been deputy prime minister in the Huong regime. He is Vietnam's most highly regarded economist and financier.

Oanh, whose friends call him Jack Owen, was educated in Japan and the United States. He taught economics at Harvard until the fall of Ngo Dinh Diem's regime on Nov. 1, 1963.

He returned soon after Diem's assassination and joined the government as minister of economics.

An estimated 5,000 Buddhist faithful swarmed into the nationalist Buddhist centre in Saigon Wednesday to hail the coup that earlier had toppled the Huong government.

About 300 later marched toward the offices of two Vietnamese newspapers that had criticized Buddhists. The mob was broken up by police hurling tear gas.

Cautious Comment American Reaction

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department says continued political instability in South Viet Nam "inevitably has a bearing on prosecution of the war."

But the comment, made by spokesman Robert J. McCloskey, was about as far as the United States would go on the record, in assessing the coup that brought Gen. Khanh back to power.

Gagnon Death Certificate

Action 'Not Tolerated'

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons Wednesday questioned a statement about death certificates which was made before the Dorian inquiry.

Dr. Landriault, Gagnon's personal physician, conceded that this practice was not usual. But he said it is "tolerated" by the college.

The college spokesman said in a Wednesday interview: "It is completely false to think that the college toler-ates the signing of death certificates in this manner."

He said toleration would be possible under special circumstances.

"But these circumstances are so few that one could ignore them."

The college spokesman said "It may well happen that the governors will decide to do something" about Dr. Landriault's statement.

Three RCMP constables and a cafe operator have been accused of fraud in the handling of meal accounts of prisoners at the Prince Rupert jail.

Assistant Commissioner D. O. Forrest, commanding officer of the RCMP in B.C., announced the charges Wednesday.

He said the men were charged by summons in the last two days, after a four-month police investigation into the supplying of meals to prisoners in the Prince Rupert jail.

Charged are Const. W. L. Giesbrecht, 27; Const. A. G. Kemp, 25; Const. W. S. Austin, 28, and cafe operator Kut Sing Low of Prince Rupert.

The case is scheduled to open

in Prince Rupert magistrate's court Feb. 10.

Ernest A. Alexander of Vancouver has been named as special prosecutor by the attorney-general's department.

The charges accuse Giesbrecht of defrauding the province of money between Jan. 1, 1962, and March 31, 1963. The charge against Kemp covers a period between April 1, 1963, and July 31, 1964, and the period covered in Austin's charge is from August 24, 1963, to Sept. 11, 1963.

Cafe Owner Accused

Kut is accused of defrauding the province between Jan. 1, 1962, and July 31, 1961.

The RCMP announcement said indications of possible irregularities were spotted by other members of the Prince Rupert detachment more than four months ago. A report was sent immediately to Victoria and an investigation was launched.

The force investigated reports that some members of the 21-man detachment had obtained free meals and groceries from a restaurant that provided meals for prisoners.

The restaurant was said to have covered the cost by increasing the price of prisoners' meals.

Const. Giesbrecht is in Shaughnessy Hospital here recovering from a gunshot wound. He is in good condition. He was taken to hospital after being found wounded in his home at Grand Forks last August.

Const. Kemp had been transferred to the Burnaby detachment from Prince Rupert prior to the investigation, and Austin is in Prince Rupert.

Kemp and Austin were taken off normal duty this week following the laying of charges.

Denis

Pale, Articulate

Denis Denies Making Bribe Offer

MONTREAL (CP)—Raymond Denis, pale and drawn but spiritedly articulate, denied in the witness box Wednesday that he ever offered a bribe to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne.

The accusation was "a bomb, an explosion, a terrible surprise," he declared before the Dorian inquiry.

It was the first public statement by the 33-year-old former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay on the case which has rocked the country since it broke in the Commons Nov. 23.

Mr. Lamontagne testified Dec. 15 when the inquiry opened in Ottawa. Denis offered him $20,000 July 14 to agree to bail for Lucien Rivard, 49, wanted in the U.S. on charges of being a key conspirator in an international, Mafia-controlled narcotics smuggling ring.

OFFER CLAIMED

Mr. Lamontagne was—and still is—acting for the U.S. government in the extradition case against Rivard, scheduled to be decided today by Mr. Justice Francois Caron in Court of Queen's Bench here.

Andre Desjardins quoted from an RCMP report of an Aug. 19 interview with Denis that Denis had told police all he knew about the Rivard case was what he had read in the newspapers while on holidays.

STATE OF SHOCK

Denis said he couldn't remember making such a statement to the RCMP.

"I was in a state of shock," he said, when Inspector J. P. Drapeau had told him of Mr. Lamontagne's charge.

Denis said he couldn't have made such a statement because he hadn't had any holidays apart from weekends.

Earlier, he said he had discussed the Rivard case July 14 in Ottawa with Mr. Lamontagne and Liberal organizer Guy Manson had spoken to him of the affair June 22.

WENT TO OTTAWA

The witness, a Montreal lawyer who went to Ottawa in June, 1963, as special assistant to then Justice Minister Chevrier, said Mr. Lamontagne told him July 14 that he (Lamontagne) had been offered $3,000 and that "it was terrible that anyone could think a lawyer could sell himself in that way."

Pearsons Leave

MONTREAL (UPI) — Prime Minister Pearson, accompanied by his wife, left Dorval Airport Wednesday for London to attend the Churchill funeral.

Soviet Marshal Will Attend

MOSCOW (UPI) — The British Embassy announced that Soviet army Marshal Ivan Konev and Deputy Premier Konstantin Rudnev will represent the Soviet Union at Sir Winston Churchill's funeral in London. Konev's troops drove invading Nazi armies from Moscow to Berlin.

Television To Carry Last Rites

The Churchill funeral will be shown live from England via Telstar satellite Saturday morning by at least three television channels seen in Victoria.

CBC and CHEK officials announced Wednesday the funeral will be shown during a program beginning at 5 a.m. on Channels 2 and 6. Films will be shown on the same channels at 9:45 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. Channel 5 will show the funeral at 6:30 a.m. Saturday while radio stations CFX (1070) and CBU (690) will carry live broadcasts beginning at 1 a.m. CFX will carry a repeat at 7:05 p.m.
